CAPITOL IN DOUBT OVER RADIO BOARD

Congress Leaders Uncertain About Hoover Viewpoint on Commission
MAY CHANGE ITS STATUS
Problem May Go Back to Department of Commerce, Original Authority

Washington — Conflicting impressions are current at the capitol as to Herbert Hoover's desire with reference to the extension for one year of the authority of the federal radio commission.
The house committee has ordered a favorable report by unanimous vote on the proposal to extend for a year the present commission. It is reliably reported that President-elect Hoover thinks the whole radio problem should go back to the department of commerce where it was originally.
Mr. Hoover, on the other hand, also has indicated that to thrust a radio tangle at the new secretary of commerce might be a serious strain and unless the personal of the present commission could be taken over by the department completely, so as to effect a smooth transition he would be inclined to let matters rest as they are.
The present arrangement is a compromise. It was intended that for a year or two the commission should be a tribunal of direct jurisdiction and then it could be an appeal board. The question now is whether the department of commerce is ready to take direct supervision with, of course, the commission as a court of appeal.

HOOPER MAY APPOINT
Some of the members of the commission have resigned and it is hardly likely that President Coolidge will attempt to send names to the senate unless it is clear what congress is going to do. And if congress doesn't act until the closing days of the session it will be left to Mr. Hoover to make the new appointments which in the end might amount to the same thing as having the whole thing placed in the department of commerce. Few men are going to be willing to accept appointment for a year if it is known that the commission's work will be taken over by the department of commerce immediately thereafter.
Mr. Hoover has it in his power to straighten out the tangle and indicate directly to congressional leaders what he wants done about it. Those who have consulted him find a disinclination on his part to interfere though he concedes that the present situation is unsatisfactory and that he would much prefer to have radio administered by the department of commerce as he originally suggested.

LAKE SHIP AT PORT AFTER TOUGH VOYAGE

Kenosha — (AP) — Storm-tossed and ice-bound the S. Waikuan was in the harbor here Thursday, having been held pumped dry after a hauling voyage from Chicago. It took the big merchandise carrier 23 hours to make the trip through the Lake Michigan ice floes. Ordinarily she makes the run in a little less than 4 1/2 hours. Captain Tryon said that the ice for a considerable distance off shore was as much as 10 feet deep. Twenty miles out, he said, the floes brought the big bulk to a dead stop.
The ice sheared 50 feet of steel plate off the ship's side and caused it to ship a considerable amount of water.

SOLONS GIVEN BILL TO CARE FOR CHILDREN

Reis Introduces Measure Embodying Children's Code for Wisconsin
Madison — (AP) — The Children's Code bill, the measure embodying recommendations of the committee of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, was introduced in the assembly Thursday by Alvin C. Reis, Madison, as chairman of the judiciary committee.
The proposed bill covers practices of care, treatment and protection of all dependent, neglected and delinquent children in Wisconsin. It names seven fields as the delinquent child, the neglected child, the child born out of wedlock, the adopted child, the child cared for outside the family home, boarding homes and the dependent child. It provides for county child welfare boards.
The definition, "delinquent child," is made more clear and more in keeping with modern thought, it is pointed out, as the measure provides that the juvenile court shall receive all juvenile offenders, and it shall have original, exclusive jurisdiction in cases of children up to 18 years old. The bill provides for detention of children whose parents cannot be depended to provide such service, and it prohibits holding children under 18 years, except in extreme instances, in jails and police stations. With reference to the neglected child, the measure re-defines the term, and gives courts authority to

JENSEN MONOPLANE IS FORCED DOWN IN EAST

Mitchell Field, N. Y. — (AP) — A "hoodoo" that trailed Martin Jensen from the time he took off Wednesday in an attempt to break the solo endurance flight record finally forced him down at 2:10 Thursday morning with less than half his goal achieved.
In the Bellanca monoplane Green Flash he set out to beat the record of 35 hours and 25 minutes established by the late Royal Thomas. He took off at 9:04:05 Wednesday morning in the face of adverse weather conditions and at the time of his landing had been in the air 17 hours 6 minutes.
He declared the combination of ice and rain that he had faced all day and night culminating in a series of petty annoyances caused him to give up the attempt.

John D., Jr., Is Winning Oil Battle?

Member of Proxy Committee Announces Control of 51 Per Cent of Stock

New York — (AP) — Winthrop W. Aldrich, member of the proxy committee conducting the contest of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairman ship of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, announced Thursday that the proxies for 51 per cent of the voting stock were assured to the Rockefeller forces.
The Aldrich statement follows: "Winthrop W. Aldrich, of the firm of Murray, Aldrich and Roberts, a member of the proxy committee consisting of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Mr. William Roberts and Mr. Aldrich himself, which is soliciting proxies to be voted at the annual meeting of the Standard Oil company of Indiana against the re-election of Col. Robert W. Stewart as a director of that company, announces that the committee now has in hand proxies representing 51 per cent of the stock of the company."
An hour after the Aldrich statement had been issued, there came one from the Stewart faction disavowing the claims made by Mr. Aldrich. It was made public by George K. Bowden, Colonel Stewart's representative here, and asserted: "This fight is not going to be won by statements appealing for band wagon support. It will be won by votes on March 7."

NO GENERAL FARM MEET BEFORE APRIL

Hoover Will Confer With Leaders but Won't Ask General Convention

BY JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer
Miami Beach, Fla. — (AP) — While President-elect Hoover will confer with a number of farm leaders in the formulation of an agricultural relief program, he has no intention of calling a general farm conference in advance of the special session of congress in April.
His general ideas on the subject already have been outlined along broad lines and no doubt will be restated in his message to the seventy-first congress at the convening of the extraordinary session.
Many plans will be presented to these committees. The fundamental principle will be that of a farm board and a revolving fund with provision made for the creation of farm-owned and farmer-controlled corporations to assist in the orderly marketing of crops.
In the agricultural industry as well as in all others, the president-elect wants as little government interference as is consistent with the interest of the people. His conception of the problem is that the farmers want to conduct their own industry along sound lines with such federal assistance as will enable it to reach a parity with other industries. Upward revision of tariff schedules on farm products is one method which has been promised and in the forthcoming general amendment to the present tariff law this will be sought along with changes in schedules affecting other products necessary to meet changed conditions since these schedules were written. Friends of Mr. Hoover assert that he does not look with favor upon a general revision of the tariff.

HOUSE GIVES APPROVAL TO ALL CHANGES

Democrat Attempts to Give President Power to Suspend Building

Washington — (AP) — The naval construction program calling for 15 cruisers and one airplane carrier was sent to President Coolidge Thursday with house approval of senate amendments.
The amendments were accepted after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to revise the measure to give the president authority to suspend building of the cruisers if an agreement should be reached between principal nations to define the rights of belligerents and neutrals at sea. Representative Huddleston, Democrat, proposed the change. But Chairman Britten of the house naval committee, refused to yield to him the floor to permit the amendment to be offered.
Plans to have work begin on some of the cruisers called for in the bill were under way in the house. Chairman Britten had said earlier that if the house agreed to the senate amendments and the president signs the bill before the house disposes of the naval supply bill he would offer an amendment to the latter to provide $12,475,000 as a start toward construction of five cruisers and the aircraft carrier.
He said he was confident that the president would sign the measure. The measure, last of the major proposals of the Coolidge administration, directs that the 15 cruisers and aircraft carrier, he laid down before July 1, 1931.
President Coolidge has opposed retention of the time limit stipulation but has been represented as friendly to the bill in its present form.
The most important senate amendment calls for the negotiation of treaties with foreign nations to define the rights of neutrals at sea during war. Under another amendment the navy would be authorized to purchase such equipment and materials from commercial shipbuilding yards as are not manufactured by the navy. Eight of the cruisers are to be built in the navy yards, and the remainder in private plants.

HOUSE SETTLES ROMAN QUESTION TO BE SIGNED

Rome — (AP) — An agreement settling the Italo-Roman question will be signed Sunday.
Announcement of the concord has been made in communication from Pope Pius XI to all bishops, cardinals and apostolic delegates abroad and by an official announcement here Thursday morning by Cardinal Gasparri.
The signing will take place in the Lateran palace, one of the places outside the Vatican where extra-territoriality was insured by a law of 1871. Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, will sign for the pope and Premier Mussolini for King Victor Emmanuel.
Their signatures will end an estrangement between Vatican and Italian state which began in 1870 with the investing of Rome by the troops of King Victor Emmanuel I of Italy, and subsequent self-imposed imprisonment of the pope at the Vatican.
In the agreement the Vatican has subordinated claims to added territorial powers of moral law in Italy. Various concessions are made to the church by the Italian state relating to the power of the pope in the Vatican area. Regarded as even more important than these, however, is the agreement of the Italian government to do its utmost to secure observance of the church's canon law throughout Italy.
While there is to be only a small addition to the Vatican grounds — the pope having refused the Villa Dorcia enlargement offered him — the pope is to be ruler supreme within its confines.
He is to have the power of coinage, money, issuance of banknotes, postage stamps and other prerogative of a sovereign state. He will have his own railway station, telegraph and telephone post, wireless station and aviation field. His domain is to be known as the "Vatican City" or the "Vatican State."

LET NATURE HELP FEED DAIRY COWS

That Is Plea of Badger Professor at Wisconsin Farm Folks Gathering

Madison — (AP) — Mother Nature had better be allowed to shuffle the chemicals for cows in her own way, in natural foods, said Gustav Bohstedt, University of Wisconsin, before the Wisconsin Farm Folks gathering here Thursday. He spoke on "what we don't know about mineral feeds," for livestock, pointing to the correlation of quarries and cows.
Prof. F. B. Hart, agricultural chemist of the state school, had discussed, Wednesday, how an insufficiently fed dairy cow actually draws from its skeleton and flanks to keep the proper amount of phosphorus and lime in its milk and also to keep up the amount of milk produced. His title was the "mysteries of nutrition."

STEENBOCK DISCOVERY NOW COMMERCIALIZED

Madison — (AP) — Harry Steenbock, University of Wisconsin professor in agricultural chemistry, who discovered that matter irradiated by quartz mercury vapor lamp rays develops calcium-building qualities, or vitamin D, essential in development of bone in men and animals, Thursday announced the commercialization of his patent.
Vitamin D, or the sun-light vitamin, is the greatest contributor toward cure of rickets in children and animals.
Steenbock's discovery, which finally was branched into two methods of developing this calcium-giving element, was turned over, without profit to him, despite the fact that it had uncalculated commercial possibilities, to the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation.
The delay in the proceedings came at the request of H. W. Adams, Reilly, attorney for the complainants, who asked more time in which to prepare evidence to be submitted to the committee of five conducting the probe.

Ekern, former Wisconsin attorney general in an address Wednesday night. Mr. Ekern, who is a member of the Bethel Lutheran church, Madison, and also of the denomination's pension board, outlined a plan to the systems now in effect in the Presbyterian, Northern Baptist, Episcopal and Congregational churches.
Under the plan each congregation would pay into the pension fund annually an amount equal to a percent of its pastor's salary. The pastor himself would also pay a certain amount each year.

WOMAN 'COLONEL HOUSE' RESIGNS IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla. — (AP) — With the resignation of Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, confidential secretary to Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, before them, legislators Thursday were speculating on what effect, if any, her exit from the state's political arena might have on the present situation.
With Johnston facing trial before a senate impeachment court on 11 charges voted against him by the house, and numerous other state officials pondering the trend on the various investigating committees' inquiries, anti-administration forces led by H. Tom Knight, branded Mrs. Hammonds' move as a political gesture seeking sympathy for the governor's cause.
Johnston, voicing "perfect confidence" in the outcome of his case, said if he is acquitted, Mrs. Hammonds "is not going to return to the office in any capacity whatsoever — this with the full approval and agreement of both parties."

FATHER WINS $3,000 FROM BOOTLEGGER SON

Milwaukee — (AP) — The father who said his son because he was a bootlegger, won a $3,000 verdict at the hands of a circuit court jury here late Wednesday.
The son, Paul Smith, who already has served a year in Leavenworth because his last liquor shipment into Milwaukee fell into the hands of federal agents, contended that the father, Frank J. Smith, knew the purpose for which the money was being used and that it was a business investment and not a loan.
Paul declared that in his opinion he had discharged the debt by keeping his father's name out of the matter, serving the prison sentence and coming out "broke."

Curb Loans Granted To Speculator

Washington — (AP) — Notice has been served by the federal reserve board that it intends to take steps to restrain the use of federal reserve credit for speculative purposes.
After a conference of several hours Wednesday between George L. Harrison, governor of the federal reserve bank of New York, Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve board, and members of the board, a statement was issued which called attention to the growth of speculative credit during the year. The loss by the country of some $500,000,000 in gold and advances in the cost of credit for commercial uses.
The statement declared that the federal reserve board did not assume the right to set itself up as an arbiter of security speculation, but added that it was its business to see that the federal reserve banks functioned effectively.
"When it finds that conditions are arising," the statement said, "which obstruct reserve banks in the effective discharge of their function of so managing the credit facilities of the federal reserve system as to accommodate commerce and business, it is its duty to inquire into them and to take such measures as may be determined suitable and effective in the circumstances to correct them; which, in the immediate situation, means to restrain the use, either directly or indirectly, of federal reserve credit facilities in aid of the growth of speculative credit."

Blows Exchanged At Rock-Co Probe

Janetville — (AP) — Following two hectic days of dispute and fast-shaking, the Rock-Co supervisors late Wednesday decided to adjourn their investigation of their own affairs in connection with the construction of the county tuberculosis sanitarium to Feb. 15.
The delay in the proceedings came at the request of H. W. Adams, Reilly, attorney for the complainants, who asked more time in which to prepare evidence to be submitted to the committee of five conducting the probe.
The five officials entered Wednesday when J. P. Cullen, one of the prime movers in the inquiry, remarked that Contractor T. S. Wolfe had evidently "bought" his job, whereupon Wolfe's knocked Cullen against a railing in the courtroom. The men separated before further blows could be struck.
Much of Wednesday's testimony consisted of answers by the contractor regarding bills for his labor and material. In the case of the former a bill of $42,000 was approved, while it was said that the bill should have amounted to only $4,150. The steel work cost $1,713 more than was originally estimated, the contractor said, because a Chicago firm from which he had obtained the original estimate figures had not been exact. A bill of $1,000 was spent in working over the possibility of a $50,000 tunnel, enclosing the sanitarium and one of the other county buildings, and containing heating pipes, electric conduits, etc. There were no provisions for the tunnel in the original plans.

WOULD DELVE INTO COSTS SINCE 1924

Move to Present Minority Report Fails—Vote Is Unanimous, 87 to 0

EXPECT SENATE'S O. K.

If Hotels Broke Dry Laws at Road School, Padlocks May Be Applied

Madison — (AP) — A legislative investigation into expenditures made by all parties and factions in all state campaigns since 1924 was approved Thursday by the assembly. It adopted the resolution of Frank L. Prescott, Milwaukee Conservative, calling for such investigation by a committee of three assemblymen and two senators, who would be appointed by the presiding officers of the two houses.
Vote on the measure was 87 to 0, despite an effort of Assemblyman F. W. Cords, Jr., Milwaukee, to bring in a minority report. Mr. Cords contended that circuit court action which is to be brought against Gov. Walter J. Kohler in connection with his campaign expenditures, and the investigation conducted by Arthur Barry, Milwaukee attorney, into Progressive expenditures, are sufficient for the time.
Unable to substitute his minority report, Mr. Cords asked the assembly to table the majority report, but his request was refused.
The resolution goes to the senate, which has already before it a similar measure introduced by Senator William Markham, Conservative.
Inquiry into all campaigns since 1924 is in line with previous suggestions of Governor Kohler, who carries out the recommendations contained in his address to the legislature. The personnel of the committee, if the senate adopts the measure, will be determined by Speaker Charles S. Perry, Conservative, presiding officer of the assembly, and Lieutenant Governor Henry A. Hueter, Progressive, who is president of the senate.
Prescott's resolution originally provided that the personnel of the committee would be chosen "in the regular manner in which standing committees are selected," this would have meant that the senate members would be chosen by the committee on committees, headed by Senator E. J. Boone, Conservative. An amendment by Mr. Cords, Progressive, floor leader of the assembly, providing that Lieutenant Governor Hueter should appoint the senate members, was accepted by Prescott.

CAMPAIGNS INCLUDED

Campaigns into which the investigation will inquire include John J. Blaine's election as governor in 1924 and as United States senator in 1926; the election of young Robert M. La Follette to succeed his father in the U. S. senate, as well as the more recent campaigns of La Follette, Joseph D. Beck, Fred R. Zimmerman, and Governor Kohler.
Little opposition to the measure is expected to develop in the senate, as both Conservatives and Progressives have expressed a desire to have thorough investigations made to determine if there have been violations of the corrupt practices act. A clarification of the act is expected to result from the inquiries.
A resolution asking that padlock proceedings be instituted against

PLANES MUST BE CARRIED TO SEA ON FLEET'S BACKS

Only by This Procedure Can We Hope to Win Control of Water, Says Moffett

(Extraordinary problems have entered into the efficient use of fighting aircraft as a navy auxiliary. How these problems are being solved and the part the airplane may play in future maneuvers of the world's fleets has been told exclusively for The Associated Press by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the navy department.)

BY REAR ADM. W. A. MOFFETT
Washington—(P)—Future control of the sea, upon which protection of our merchant ships depends, will be assured only if we can carry great fleets of airplanes to sea on the backs of our fleets.

Life cannot now be sustained in the vast areas of the sea upon airplanes alone. The outcome of the Dole flight and of various other trans-oceanic ventures has given us compelling object lessons which we dare not ignore.

If the time ever comes when control of the sea can be better exercised by vessels of the air only, you may be assured that the United States navy will be the first to put wings on its vessels and abandon the surface. But until we have produced far more efficient airplanes than we now have any right to expect we must relate all air activities to the surface ships.

The navy recognizes the enormous potential threat to ships that exists in the operation of air craft, but careful studies have forced us to recognize that if we are to have aircraft operations in distant areas the only way we can have them there is to carry the airplanes on the backs of the ships of the fleet.

Back of the problem of developing efficient airplanes to use at sea has been the far more important job of developing the service facilities on the surface. Only those who have visited some of our largest flying fields and have seen long rows of hangars, hundreds of acres of smooth landing space, and perhaps as many as 50 or 100 planes operating from such a field at once, can realize the magnitude of the navy's biggest problem.

We had the job of condensing all of the flying activities of such a field into a space less than 900 feet long and 100 feet wide, the size of our modern ships. Furthermore, we had to provide means for the "flying field" to move on the surface of the ocean at a speed of 35 or 40 miles an hour, and be able to cruise on the open sea for weeks on end without contact with shore.

That is the problem which we successfully solved in the development, after years of experimental research, of the Lexington and Saratoga. These aircraft carriers, along with devices for launching air planes from our regular battleships and cruisers, have shown the way to most efficient use of air planes on our national naval defense.

Auto Runs 59 Miles On Gallon of Gas

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. WOULD BAN LIQUOR DRINKING ON TRAINS

Howard Teasdale of Sparta Presents Bill to State Senate

Madison—(P)—Drinking of liquor on buses as well as on trains and other conveyances, as now prohibited by law, would be banned in a bill presented to the state senate by Sen. Howard Teasdale of Sparta.

Sen. P. J. Smith, put in a measure similar to others in both houses for a committee to set up the proposed 5000-mile highway routes throughout the state trunk system and Senator Johnson presented a measure for a 4-cent gasoline tax, with double allotments to the towns, cities and villages and special provisions whereby some pupils attending outside their own district pay tuition.

A second measure would prohibit teachers attending the county teachers' institutes in cases where the attendance interrupts school sessions. His third bill provides that no teacher's contract shall be signed before the annual meeting of the district board.

Railroads would be made "absolutely liable" to injured or killed persons or their estates in automobile accident cases, under a bill by Sen. Markham. The bill also provided that railroads maintain crossing signals, either bells or lights or both, at all crossings.

Sen. White put in a measure whereby county highway officials would have to attend the state road school.

The Inaugural Pageant

FROM WASHINGTON TO HOOVER

ANDREW JACKSON, 1829-'37
BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington—(P)—The inauguration of Andrew Jackson, seventh president of the United States, was celebrated with much "whoopie" by the people, "some in finery, some in rags," who idolized the "chivalrous barbarian" from the frontier state of Tennessee.

Grieving at the recent death of his wife, whom he had tenderly cared for and fiercely defended against a "whispering campaign" of political enemies, the old warrior journeyed from his home. The Hermitage, to Washington to the plaudits of a people who saw in him the embodiment of the democratic ideals of the west.

A crowd estimated at from 10,000 to 20,000 jammed Washington to see its hero take the oath of office March 4, 1829. "I never saw such a crowd before," said Daniel Webster. "Persons have come 500 miles to see General Jackson and they really seem to think the country is rescued from dreadful danger."

The scene in the capital is described by John Spencer Bassett in his biography of Jackson:

"By 10 o'clock the avenue was crowded with carriages of every description, from the splendid baronet and coach down to wagons and carts filled with women and children, in all manner of dress, for it was the people's day; the men all walked."

Before noon the steps surrounding the east of the capitol were "alive with humanity." People on the west front, looking down Pennsylvania avenue, saw a small company approaching on foot. All wore their around the president until he was only saved from bodily harm by some gentlemen who made a circle in front of him and kept back the crowd by main force." He finally escaped by a side entrance and went to his lodgings at Gadsby's hotel. "The rabble fell on the refreshments, jostling waiters as they appeared at the doors, breaking china and glass," said an eye-witness of the party. "They stood in muddy boots on damask covered chairs, spoiled the carpets and caused such a press that it was no longer possible for those inside to escape by the doors."

ENDS COLD QUICK WAY DOCTORS NOW ADVISE

Tempting Taste! Instant Relief—Then Cold Quickly Disappears When Treated This Way

No longer is it necessary for cold to cause needless misery or risk of pneumonia, according to experiences of numbers of Appleton people. For doctors are now advising home use of a pleasant hostess method that gives almost instant relief—then quickly drives the cold out of one's system.

Mrs. Alice McNeil, for example, neglected a cold because it was mild at first. A day later congestion started to spread rapidly; she felt "sucky" and feared pneumonia. On the advice of her doctor then she started using double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral and a host of other ailments of cold, flu, croup, whooping cough, etc., were quickly driven out.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. Indorsed by Schinley Drug and all druggists, 60c; or twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

"I sure was right—I lit a Lucky"

"So many people have made a fuss over me because in rowing back to the 'America,' after we had picked up the 'Florida' survivors, I was smoking a Lucky Strike. I can't see why there should be any excitement about this—it was the natural thing for me to do. Before we started out from the 'America' I made sure that my pack of Luckies was with me—I wanted the comfort and pleasure of Luckies no matter what happened. I sure was right. I'll have to admit that after we picked up the 'Florida' crew and started back, my nerves were completely let down. So I did the thing I always do at such times—I lit a Lucky. As long as I live, I'll never get another kick as I did from the sweet old toasted flavor of that Lucky as we were tossing about on the old Atlantic. I'm a hundred percent when it comes to 'reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' I lay off the things that would make me flabby and light up a Lucky instead. There's too much action going on in my life to have me moving around with a lot of excess weight which I don't need. There's another thing about Luckies. The toasting process, in removing the impurities, is a blessing to us who follow the sea. It prevents throat irritation which is a constant nuisance to those who are regularly exposed to salt air."

The new building, which is of three stories of old English design, is located just south of the hospital proper and was designed for the young women who come to the hospital for training. Entering the building from Second-st., one finds himself in a roomy lobby of hall of English design with its twin staircases with iron railings. On the first floor is the recreation room. It is finished in green and white. A small platform is furnished for speakers should the room be used as a lecture room. On the same floor is the cloak room, diet kitchen, laboratory, laundry, lecture room and a room for the students where the students are taught the up-to-date hospital work, also the unskipped patients, and medicines.

On the second floor is located the library, living room with its spacious walls decorated in cream and ivory tints, a fire place at one end and many soft easy chairs and davenport.

On this floor is located the staff members' room, each with a single bed and each decorated in a different design of drapery and furnishings. The private apartment of Miss Kruckshank, the superintendent, is on this floor, as is that of the instructor. On the third floor are the rooms for students, each room being equipped with two single beds and each, as the rooms on the floor below, is of different decorations. There are bathrooms at each end of the hall with both showers and tubs, and an incinerator which can be used from all floors. The building is equipped with frigid-sterile systems for cooling.

There is a closet of closet room throughout the building and the tins have been carried out in the light tins and ivory which gives the building a light and airy aspect. Every room is an outside one giving excellent views.

Neenah—Salaries of city officials and employees were fixed Wednesday evening at the monthly meeting of the city council. The mayor will receive $400 a year; aldermen, $150 a year; city clerk, $3,000 including services as secretary of the board of health, secretary of board of public works, secretary and clerk of the water works and member of the board of review, office assistant, $1,000 a year; city treasurer, including salary as member of the board of review, $1,500; city engineer, $2,400; city attorney, $900; city physician, $500; poor commissioner $480; street commissioner, $1,920; assessors, $6 each for day of service; board of review, $6 each day of service; members of election boards, $4 per day; scaler of weights and measures, $25 per month.

A committee composed of the mayor, clerk and attorney was appointed to investigate.

The clerk stated that he would have time this year to go deep into the tax question. Clerk Zerkow also has started a monthly financial report of funds in all departments and of funds spent so that aldermen and heads of departments can be informed at all times as to the money left in the several funds and to how much has been spent during the month. The aldermen are furnished with a copy of the report each month.

Possession of the lot at the north end of Church-st., now owned by the Sherry estate, will be sought by the city as a place for dumping refuse in the winter and for placing the fire pumper in case it should be called to extinguish a fire in the factory district.

An invitation from the Methodist Fraternity club to the city officials for the patriotic meeting to be held at 7:45 on the evening of Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday anniversary, was accepted. Louis Kofarnus was granted a class B soft drink license to operate at 400 Main-st. Monthly reports of the justices, police department and poor commissioner were presented and accepted. The finance committee reported on bills amounting to $10,403.89 A petition for a light at the corner of Division and Park-sts. on Elm-st. referred to the committee on streets.

HOUSEBOAT IS TO BE CHANGED INTO BUNGALOW

Menasha—Mrs. Tina Bohan, who has made her home in a houseboat at Brighton beach for several years, is about to convert it into a bungalow which will be located on a vacant lot on Seventh-st. She has engaged Alex. Dombroski to do the remodeling and moving. The houseboat is at present resting on the bottom of Brighton beach channel and the reason why Mrs. Bohan prefers to move it at this time is because the water is within four inches of the floor and she is afraid of it mounting higher. In order to move it Mr. Dombroski plans to chop it out of the ice, and elevate it so he can remove the lower part. The middle portion will then be brought to Menasha and rooms added to each end. Mrs. Bohan will continue to occupy it.

WISCONSIN WEATHER Probably fair tonight and Friday, except unsettled tonight in east; much colder in east and south portion; continued cold Friday.

GENERAL WEATHER The low pressure area noted yesterday morning over the southeastern states has moved northeastward and now is influencing the weather over the eastern portion of the country. The northwestern high pressure area appears to be dividing, one section advancing slowly down the eastern slope of the Rockies, the other crossing the northern passes into the intermountain region. This has minimized its strength on the eastern side of the mountains and its attendant cold wave has not advanced as far or as strong as it otherwise would have, though snow surges accompany its advance into the plains states. It should cause lower temperatures in this section tonight and Friday, however, with generally fair weather.

The Central's petition to acquire through leases these roads, which it already controls, has been before the Interstate Commerce Commission about two years. A decision is expected early this year.

A major development of the road is planning is electrification of its tracks from New York to Buffalo at a cost of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Earnings in 1927 reached a new high record at $58,565,000, or $15.28 per common share, due primarily to a sharp increase in non-operating revenue. Earnings in the first half of 1928 fell substantially below the like period of 1927, but came up to the preceding year's level in the third quarter.

Don't Let a Cough or Cold Hang On---It's Dangerous Company

When nothing seems to do that lingering, bothersome cough any longer, just go to Schinz Bros. 3 Stores, Appleton and Menasha and get a bottle of Broncholine Emulsion.

Take it as directed and notice how easily it overcomes that persistent cough that has caused you many sleepless nights. It's a medicine compounded for the purpose of conquering tough, hang-on coughs, and that's exactly what it does—quickly and thoroughly.

There is no hope in Broncholine Emulsion, nor chloroform, nor sugar—such things are only makeshifts and should be taken with the greatest caution. For ordinary simple coughs two or three doses of Broncholine Emulsion is usually enough.

KIWANIS ASKED TO SUPPORT NEW CHILDREN'S CODE

Aubrey Williams Makes Plea for Bill Now in Legislature

Support of the children's code as presented to the Wisconsin legislature at this session was asked of members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon on Wednesday noon at the Conway hotel, by Aubrey Williams, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference social work, sponsor of the bill.

Some of the statutes on Wisconsin law books governing the care of children are not in keeping with modern thought and ideas, Mr. Williams stated as he recalled that the present juvenile court act was passed in 1901 and that the mother's pension law went into effect in 1903. Both these laws have for their primary purpose the proper care of children but both are out of keeping with modern conditions.

There are three classes of children needing care by the state and county, according to Mr. Williams. They are those whose home life is not the best, those who are entirely dependent upon the state for support and those who have become delinquent for various reasons.

Wherever it is possible the tendency nowadays is to keep a family together, Mr. Williams stated, for in sound family life is the best chance for children in the world. With the present mother's pension law and its limitations, it was the speaker's opinion that the purpose of the law was in many cases being defeated.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY

Under the present law the mother's pension fund is too low, because of statutory limitations which give a mother $15 for her first child and $10 for each additional child. Summed up the average pension per child is about $7.40 each per month. However, state institutions receive $8.32 per week for caring for each child, or nearly four times what a mother receives for trying to care for her child and keep the family together.

The speaker also pointed out that under the present law, mother's pension ceases when a child reaches the age of 14 years. Yet the statutes require that the same child be kept in school until he is 16 years of age. The new children's code will eliminate the maximum pension provision and give the county judge power to set the amount—a big step in keeping families together.

PUNISH PARENTS

Under the proposed law parents of delinquent children will be made answerable to the law if evidence shows them guilty of contributory negligence, Mr. Williams stated in his discussion of another phase of his topic. Juvenile courts will be given original jurisdiction over all cases concerning youth and there will be no placing of youthful offenders in the same prisons or jails with older prisoners as now is the case in practically all of the counties in the state.

Because the state laws have been inadequate in cases of illegitimacy no record of what happens to children born out of wedlock can be found except in 200 of 1,000 cases, Mr. Williams stated. And it has been found that 80 per cent of the illegitimate children get into some kind of trouble later in life because of neglect. The speaker also stated that heretofore the average amount in cases of settlement on mothers of illegitimate children has been about $60 as compared to $700 in Minnesota where they have a children's code. Under the provision of the new law district attorneys will have to prosecute all cases and secure a maximum amount in instances where settlement is made. Settlements also will have to be made in courts of record, Mr. Williams stated. Another provision of the proposed law will give courts a positive and strict check on all adoptions.

PIANIST EVOKES WILD ENTHUSIASM

Brailowsky Called Back for Seven Curtain Calls After His Program

Casting a spell over his audience with the warmth and tenderness of his playing, Alexander Brailowsky, famous Russian pianist, played at Lawrence Memorial chapel Wednesday evening to one of the most enthusiastic audiences that has ever greeted an artist of the Community Artist series. Continued applause brought encore after encore, and at the completion of his program the pianist was forced to return to the stage seven times to acknowledge the enthusiastic plaudits of an audience that refused to leave the chapel until they heard more.

Combining brilliant technique with warm intonation Brailowsky gave one of the most superb demonstrations of pianistic skill Appleton music lovers have ever heard. His poetic interpretations like velvet, but of the softest lightness—contrasted with the dynamic, throbbing passages in some of his heavier numbers—showed his ability to bring out all the tones the instrument has to offer. At all times his phrasing and pedaling were clear and perfectly controlled and the tender, caressing attitude he displayed throughout the performance gave an intense beauty to everything he played.

His Chopin group was matchless. There was varied presentation of intense and passionate color, mood and melody. He reached the heights in the Polonaise and A flat major, although Waltz in A flat major, with sweet, haunting melody, received enthusiastic applause.

In "Ritual Dance of Fire" by Manuel de Falla, Brailowsky carried the audience through all the wild frenzy of savages dancing and praying to their fire god, and with his arpeggio work in the final movement brought out a vivid picture of leaping flames and mad savages.

The two Liszt numbers which completed the programs were exceedingly well executed, and especially the Liszt Sixth Hungarian Rhapsody. The slowness in the difficult last movement of this composition was a fitting climax to an evening of music that kept the audience tense and expectant.

Not the least of the entire performance was Brailowsky's personal charm. From the first his serious men captivated the audience, and added a tone to his playing that kept his listeners in sympathy with him throughout the evening.

DROP ANTIQUATED ELECTORAL SYSTEM, ASSEMBLYMAN ASKS

Introduces Bill Memorializing Congress to Take Steps of This Nature

MADISON — (AP)—Assemblyman Albert Woller, Milwaukee, has introduced in the assembly a joint resolution memorializing congress to abolish the "antiquated electoral system" of electing presidents and provide for their election by popular vote. The resolution asserts that under the party convention system, delegates are subject to political manipulation so that often a candidate is nominated who is really the choice of only a minority of the party.

Following action of the state senate in defeating Sen. Thomas Dwyer's joint resolution commending Mayor George W. Mead, of Wisconsin Rapids, for refusing to grant a gas franchise to the Insull utility interests, Assemblyman Woller introduced an identical resolution in the assembly.

Assemblyman E. E. Husband, of Kalamazoo, presented a bill to allow county boards to make it mandatory for county superintendents of schools and district attorneys to maintain offices in county seats.

The silence rule in Wisconsin penal institutions which forbids prisoners to talk to each other would be abolished under terms of a bill by Assemblyman John W. Eber, Milwaukee.

He also introduced an assembly bill to forbid the secretary of state from issuing motor vehicle licenses to persons who have unsatisfied judgments against them when the judgments arose out of automobile accident damage suits.

A person residing in a city of over 200,000 population would be entitled to recover damage from the city if injured by an automobile operated by that city, under terms of a bill by Assemblyman Eber.

Solid tired trucks and transport weighing over three tons would have to have sand-pneading devices in working order in front of the rear wheels under a bill by Assemblyman Woller.

Assemblyman Arthur Hitt presented a bill under which county judges would deal out the automobile drivers permits to children at their discretion, instead of recommending the permits to be issued by the secretary of state, as now.

A "barkain license" measure under which automobile owners who register their cars early, or after the major part of the year had passed, would be given cheaper rates, was presented by Assemblyman Kehren.

MATRIMONY IN CHINA

The matrimonial news in Chinese newspapers these days must be as interesting as our own. More so, perhaps, because it is more varied and novel. "The papers," says a Peking dispatch, "are often crowded with curiously contrasting items. One column may chronicle a modern wedding in a Christian church, while a parallel column may tell of a lawsuit in which No. 1 wife sues husband and No. 2 wife on the charge that No. 2 has been permitted to take the rank and authority properly due No. 1."

Along with these will be found announcements of the intention of young men to assume or dissolve companionate marriage—an institution in China requiring no more formality than such publication. There is also news of suits brought by modernistic young women to break betrothals made for them by their parents when they were babies. In this last class is found the most hope. Until five years ago, such betrothals were binding and inviolable. Now, in the more liberal communities, betrothed young men or women may be freed from their bond by the payment of heavy damages, awarded because of the "insult to the ancestors of the jilted party."

Confusion in marital laws and standards today is world-wide. But this does not mean that the family is destined to go to pieces. The freedom stirring in this institution, as in others, will finally settle down in a new form, perhaps, preserving the old essentials. Marriage is the oldest, most firmly established institution among mankind. Society began with the family, and will end with it.

LEARNING FROM ANIMALS

Al Smith, retired statesman, visits a circus in winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla. He has a finer time than he had with his private circus at Albany, because this one has more animals. Then he tells the proprietor: "Mr. Ringling, you have proved yourself a public benefactor of the highest type. No man ever did more for humanity than you have done, in providing clean, wholesome amusement for young and old in this country."

Something may be allowed for possible exaggeration in a man so fond of animals as Mr. Smith. But on the whole, his remarks were probably justified. "Sometimes I think I would like to turn and live with the animals," says Walt Whitman, "they are so placid and self-contained."

We like to teach animals things—dogs and horses, especially. But maybe we can learn more from the animals than they can from us. Anyway, is there anything cleaner, decenter and more wholesome, in this age of dubious pleasures, than an interest in circus animals? Be glad the children have it, even if grown-ups have lost it.

HOW TIMES CHANGE

A heroic statue of Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, is to be erected next summer in Westminster, London, near the famous parliament building. And Stanley Baldwin, prime minister, is going to unveil it.

This will bring a smile to all the women, and most of the men, who remember the hectic days when Mrs. Pankhurst and her "wild women" were bedeviling the British government and turning London upside down, with their crazy demands for political equality. That was away back there before the war, but the interval is short as national histories are reckoned.

Yes, times change, as old Horace remarked, and we change in them. Statesmen would have hanged Mrs. Pankhurst if they dared, just the other day. Now they unveil monuments to her. Nobody is excited about equal suffrage any more. It is equal wages and equal sex standards now. And even these revolutionary ideas are far less exciting than equal voting was the year before Germany invaded Belgium.

INVESTMENT TRUST

The "investment trust" is a new institution in this country, and plays a big part in the present Wall street situation. It is destined to play a still bigger part. Such organizations of capital buy securities in enormous blocks. They are held largely responsible for the present high prices of stocks. Buying and removing large quantities of standard securities from the market, they leave a comparative scarcity, and the available supply is naturally bid up. Which result naturally makes the trusts' holdings more valuable.

It is estimated that not less than $500,000,000 has been invested in this manner in the last five months, and an additional billion may be added during the present year. Mostly such investment is real investment, for holding indefinitely, rather than mere speculation. Yet selling is as natural as buying, when conditions are favorable, and it is hard to draw the line between investment and speculation. For good or ill, "investment trusts" and "trading associations" are going to play an important role in the stock market from now on.

WASTEFUL CHICAGO

New York, with all its lavish expenditure, regular and irregular, is not the most careless spender among American cities. That honor must go to Chicago. The latest achievement in this line is a four-mile cinder path, dignified by the name of "bridle path" and intended as a minor detail of an elaborate roadway for garbage trucks to reach the municipal sewage disposal plant.

It might be supposed that such a thoroughfare, laid out over Chicago's level prairie surface and paved with cinders, would not cost a whole lot. It develops, however, that the complete four-mile garbage-truck road has cost so far over $3,000,000 of which about $1,000,000 went for cinders and labor on that path. The original engineer's estimate of the cost of the path was $115,000. Lamps to light the garbage trail cost $1000 apiece.

How could so much money be spent on such a project? Well, there are said to be 4,000 political employees on the Sanitary District payroll, including clerks, investigators, inspectors, policemen, lawyers and legislators. And there were no contracts made for the work. The money seems to have been just paid out as circumstances determined. And you know how circumstances are, with a lot of hungry and deserving political friends hanging around.

This sort of thing occurs pretty often in large cities. Small cities, as a rule, have more efficient government and get more for their taxes.

THE SURGEON WILL GET YOU EVEN IF YOU DO WATCH OUT

Gallbladder inflammation (called cholecystitis) is the cause of "dyspepsia" in the plurality of cases.

Dyspepsia is not a disease or malady, but just the sum of symptoms which annoy the victim or of which he complains when he has some actual organic disease. In any case of "dyspepsia," therefore, it is up to the doctor to find out what ails the patient if he can. No medicine purporting to "aid digestion" or to stop fermentation, or to control the digestive process in any way, can do more than give temporary relief or comfort to the "dyspepsia" sufferer. No special diet can cure dyspepsia and no particular food or foods nor methods of cooking or serving foods, can cure dyspepsia. No matter whence any such promises or pretenses emanate, they are just so much bunk, and incidentally, bunk is very much business in this country.

When I assert in this arbitrary fashion that no diet can cure dyspepsia I am not unmindful of and certainly do not wish to keep anybody ignorant of, the epochal work of McCarrison, a British army doctor whose observations among the Himalayas I have repeatedly cited here. McCarrison never encountered a case of gastric duodenal ulcer, appendicitis or mucous colitis among these primitive people, although he performed more than 5,000 major operations in the nine years he practiced among them. He believes and many scientific physicians agree with him, that the remarkable freedom of these people from abdominal infections is due to the character of their diet, which is mainly "natural foods," such as fresh raw milk, fresh eggs, whole grains, fruits and leafy vegetables. Such foods supply an adequate quantity of vitamin B and vitamin C, which probably favor the development of immunity against abdominal infections. There is good reason to believe that a diet such as is too often the staple food of American people, short in vitamins, is the more deleterious by reason of the excessive proportion of carbohydrate such a diet usually contains.

So I do qualify the assertion I made about the futility of dieting for dyspepsia, but we'll just let it stand now.

Nearly everybody, sooner or later, is sure to fall into the hands of a surgeon, either for treatment of an accidental injury or for an operation. Surgery is a great profession these days. My advice to the young man or young woman who contemplates studying medicine is don't, unless you are sure you can practice surgery exclusively. You may attain eminence and fame as a surgeon, even the you are rather dumb, but you have a mighty slim chance of getting anywhere in the practice of medicine or even in a specialty, today. Ordinary doctors and specialists are well the world is overrun with 'em and their stock is declining. Surgery, too, are frightfully common now, yet people still think a surgeon has to know more than an ordinary doctor or specialist and surgeons' stock is away up and like to remain up.

Only a third of the cases of gallbladder "dyspepsia" come to operation. Two-thirds worry along for a while, without it.

One physician, discussing gallbladder dyspepsia said "Gallbladder disease is primarily a surgical disease as far as treatment is concerned. Most cases that I have treated medically have ultimately brought discredit on me."

See-Sawing On Broadway

The deathlike silence is broken by the solemn chanting of the marshal: "The honorable justice and associate justices of the supreme court of the United States."

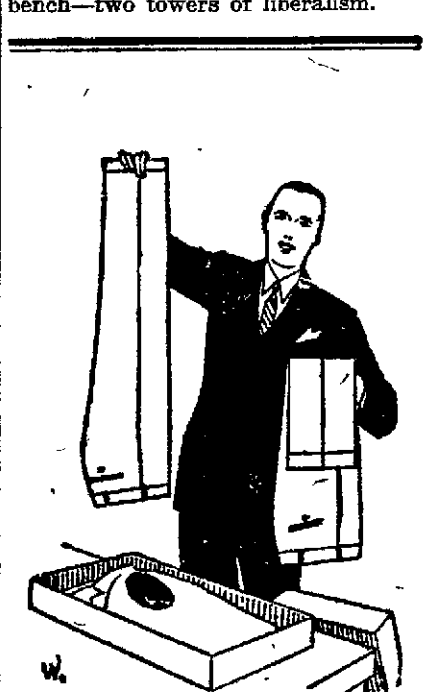

The chief justice and his seven associates in single file make their way to the bench. Again is heard the marshal's voice calling the familiar "Oyez, oyez—" and the court is in session.

ALL WATCH TAFT

The jovial Mr. Taft is in the center, attracting the most attention. To the left is Mr. Justice Holmes, perhaps the most striking figure on the bench. This venerable jurist has been described as "a walking miracle." He is 87 years old. He served through the Civil war and was desperately wounded, many thought fatally wounded. His hair is snowy white. He sits with head slightly bowed, but follows keenly the court proceedings.

To the right of the chief justice sits another most imposing figure. Mr. Justice Brandeis. His resemblance to Lincoln is startling, but it is an older Lincoln.

The two—Holmes and Brandeis—often have been referred to as the two most interesting figures on the bench—two towers of liberalism.

WOULD MOVE UP DAY OF STATE PRIMARY

Proposal Has Support of Wisconsin League of Women Voters

Madison — (AP) — The Wisconsin League of Women Voters sponsors a bill by Senator George W. Blanchard, Edgerton, moving up the date of the September primary from the Tuesday after the first Monday in September to the third Tuesday in that month.

In a statement issued with the introduction of the bill, Mrs. Frederic A. Ogg, chairman of the efficiency in government committee of the League, said it was proposed as a "get out the vote" measure.

Here are the reasons she will present to the committee on elections when the bill is up for hearing:

The first Tuesday in September comes immediately after Labor Day and with the Sunday preceding makes a holiday period of three days in the cities, take advantage of the weekend. Two years ago it was estimated, two hundred thousand voters were away from home.

September first is a popular moving day, but falls within the ten day limit now required by law for a voter to reside in a precinct. Consequently many citizens lose their right to vote.

The first Tuesday in September comes in the midst of the busy season for the farmers. In the northern part of the state, harvest is in progress, and in the southern part of the state, tobacco is being gathered. Farmers are not inclined to neglect their business to go to the polling places, especially as they may have taken the preceding days off.

Labor Day is an occasion for recreation for the entire family.

Fifty per cent of the schools do not open until the next week of September. Campers and family groups picnicking do not return until after the primary. The universities have not opened and faculty and students are still away on their vacations.

"THE TERROR" ALL-TALKING HIT

The first all-talking motion picture in the history of Appleton will be seen at the Brin Theatre starting tomorrow, when "The Terror," Warner Bros. Vitaphone special, begins a run of 5 days.

In "The Terror" even the title of the picture is announced by Vitaphone. Every line in "The Terror" is spoken, but it is not only the dialogue that is synchronized. Throughout the picture the audience hears all sounds which naturally occur during the progress of this ghostly mystery drama—wailing of winds, shots in the dark, weird playing of an organ which stands by itself in an underground chamber of the gloomy old manor house, blood-curdling cries for help and mocking laughter.

The all-star cast includes May McAvoy, Louise Fazenda, Edward Everett Horton, Alec B. Francis, Holmes Herbert, John Miljan, Mathew Betz, Joseph Girard, Otto Hoffman and Frank Austin. Roy Del Ruth directed "The Terror." Harvey Gates made the screen adaptation from the play by Edgar Wallace.

DOES NO MEAN NO OR PERHAPS IN YOUR FAMILY?

WE should teach our children that "no" means "no" and "yes" means "yes." It isn't fair to them to give the idea that "no" means "perhaps."

One of the commonest things in the world is to see a child to whom a mother has just said: "No, you may not do that," hang around and coax and plead for an hour afterward, hoping that she will change her mind. And, of course, for the sake of peace she usually does.

Very early in his young life, Johnny began to experiment. The amount of experimenting a young child does would probably amaze his parents.

Johnny calmly puts out a small investigating hand and touches, all the while keeping his eyes on his mother. He is measuring up her reaction as carefully as a jeweler weighs diamonds. How far shall he go? Be sure he'll go as far as he can.

The same psychology goes on in his mind a little later on when he is old enough to ask, "May I go over to Frank's?" "May I have a piece of cake?"

He sums up quite carefully with that keen perception of his exactly what his mother means when she says "no." If it is a floppy "no" with room on either side to slip past, be sure he is going to stick around and coax until she says "yes."

LUNCHEON—Cream of salmon soup, croutons, hearts of celery, prune tapioca pudding, hot lemonade, cookies.

DINNER—Casserole of calves' liver, boiled brown rice, winter vegetable salad, steamed fig pudding, milk, coffee.

Cream of salmon soup is very much worth while for the housekeeper who does not live near the market. The soup is delicious and nourishing and would appear on a restaurant menu as a "bisque of salmon."

CREAM OF SALMON SOUP
Two tablespoons butter, 1-2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 3 cups rich milk, 1 pound can salmon.

Melt butter and stir in flour. Add parsley, salt, pepper and paprika and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture bubbles. Add milk and bring to the boiling point. Pick over salmon, discarding bone and skin. Rub fish through a coarse colander. Add to sauce with enough boiling water to make of the consistency of rather thick gruel. Bring to the boiling point and serve.

Paris Models Toil For Twenty Five Dollars A Week In Gorgeous Gowns

Life is not all froth and frills for Paris mannequins, but several have fluttered a long way and made changes in metropolitan social registers. Here are two: Dorothy Smart, now the wife of a wealthy Canadian publisher (left), and June Dibble, whom Frederick Almy married.

BY RITA
(Associated Press Fashion Artist)

PARIS—(AP)—Pretty Paris mannequins are the electric hares in the race to be first with new styles. Fashion never catches up with them, for they know what will be shown long before it is out and by the time the newest is launched they are concerned with the newer still.

Contrary to popular conception, life is not all froth and frills for the thousand or more models here. Most of them live like actresses in luxurious stage settings of fashion salons during the daytime, as they parade the richest and best of beautiful clothes. At the end of their day, life becomes somewhat beer and skittles for most of them.

They shed silks and satins for cheaper materials smartly trimmed with imitation fur. Once among the throng of homegoing a mannequin looks just like any other well-dressed young business woman. She is no longer the butterfly, but an earnest, thoroughly tired grub wondering what she will get for dinner.

That is the life of the average mannequin who carries her pay envelope home on Saturday nights to help meet the family expenses. If she is a particularly successful mannequin with a good job, there may be $25 a week in the pay envelope. But she is lucky if there is $20.

In exchange for it she gives seven hours a day five and a half days a week, beginning at 10 o'clock. Each gown she is to display in the regular collection is made especially for her. She is in and out of a hundred costumes a day. Each time her gown is ordered she gets a small bonus. Smiles and patience are made to pay, thought the feet may be tired and the back aching.

But the romance of the mannequin's life, a legend which dies as hard as the belief that the chorus girl leads an easy life, is not made by the quiet existence of the average mannequin. It is the butterflies, not the grubs, who make copy for newspapers.

The most interesting come from the salons of Jean Patou and most of them are American girls. There have been in quick succession Patou's famous "June," a slender brunette with an apple blossom complexion and black hair, whom Frederick Almy married soon after the death of his wife, the late Lady Micheline, and Dorothy Smart, now the wife of a wealthy Canadian publisher.

Beautiful Josephine Armstrong became the wife of Erskine Gwynne and now is a popular young hostess in Paris society. "Dolores," a languid brunette with pallid skin and dark eyes, recently married Michel de Surmont of an important French family. She formerly was Florence Towney, an American girl.

Patou's introduction of American mannequins in 1924 had a lasting effect on the profession of modeling clothes. The American beauties were a success from the first, but they have two drawbacks, according to Monsieur Patou. They require more pay than the French girls and are hard to keep.

The first lot went like hot cakes. The couturier now takes the matrimonial casualty average into account when recruiting in the United States.

French mannequins are beginning to follow the "type American." The American trick of simplicity and naturalness is putting exaggerated posturing out of business.

The mannequins' biggest opportunity for personal advancement and conquest comes when they are sent by their house to display special collections at fashionable resorts. They show bathing suits at Deauville or Cannes, pajamas at the Lido, skating costumes in St. Moritz and evening gowns at Biarritz and Monte Carlo.

In Paris the model who wishes to dine in a smart restaurant or dance at a fashionable night club has no clothes problem. The best clothes in the collection of her house are hers for a few francs rental, and her boss considers it good business.

The trouble with "dancing mannequins" is that tired feeling the next day. As a result the average girl regulates her life till it rivals a tilter dancing girl's for simplicity and regularity. Her three hobbies are diet, rest and reducing exercises. Her spare time she spends at the coiffeur's and the manicurist's.

Her best friend is Morpheus.

CHICAGO WOMAN ASSISTS YOUNG VIOLIN ARTISTS

Chicago—(AP)—A Chicago society woman has unlatched the door of musical fame for two California lads scarcely old enough to hold a violin in their arms.

Ruggiero Ricci, the eight-year-old protégé of Mrs. Frederick H. Bartlett, was acclaimed as another Heifetz by critics who heard his debut on a San Francisco concert platform. At six years of age Ruggiero's brother, Giorgio, won a scholarship after he had studied the violin seven months. A letter from a relative told Mrs. Bartlett of the Ricci brothers. Louis Persinger, himself violin teacher, said their parents were too poor to permit them to develop a precocious talent. Mrs. Bartlett determined to aid them.

She rented a cottage in Berkeley, Calif. A housekeeper and governess were hired to care for the boys. Tutors and violin teachers were engaged.

Twice before his concert debut Ruggiero won the Oscar Wein memorial scholarship for gifted and talented students. His technique on a $5 violin brought a unanimous vote of praise from Pacific coast critics. Giorgio won the Emporium Achievement club's contest and a scholarship in his first public appearance.

"Don't be a bigger fool than the Lord made you. Cy Plumpton!" Crystal's unwilling road-hostess cut into her husband's protests sharply. "If this little fly-by-night wants us to dump her on the highway, with night coming on, she's got her reasons. A married man with his wife along ain't just what she's looking for! Let her go, I say, and good riddance! She won't be alone long!"

"Aw, Argie, button up your mouth!" her husband commanded. "Now, listen, little lady—" to Crystal, who had alighted from the car.

"It ain't none of my business why you've changed your mind about going to Kansas City, and if I got too fresh, with my teasing and carrying on, why I didn't mean no harm—" "Oh, no, no! You've been kind, kind!" Crystal sobbed, frantic for them to drive on and leave her to work out her plan for saving Fabio from Bob's wrath. "I've just remembered something terribly important. That's all! Please—I'll be all right. I'll walk to the nearest station—Oh, please! I thank you with all my heart. I do, I do! But I must be alone now—"

Cystal could have screamed aloud with relief when at last Cyrus Plumpton stepped on the gas and his heavily-laden car trundled off into the twilight.

"Hello, girls! All by your lonesome? Gee, Ed, this is our lucky day! Hop in, girls! Did that other guy get fresh with you?"

Cystal had not heard the noisy approach of the Ford roadster with its two slightly intoxicated young men.

And after she had repulsed this offer of a pick-up her feet almost automatically forsook the highway, took her into the deep woods-root of a lane leading, presumably to a farmhouse.

As she struggled along in the dark the headlines of The Morning Star repeated themselves foolishly over and over in the chaos of her mind:

"Jefferson Girl Believed Kidnaped." The fingers of Crystal's left hand were still gripped tightly about the rolled-up paper, but it was too dark now for her to read. What if those half-drunk boys in the roadster had kidnaped her—Crystal Hathaway? The Morning Star would have had another headline: "Hathaway Girl Believed Kidnaped." The Plimptons would tell reporters and police how the men in the roadster had stopped to talk with her. But the Plimptons thought the girl to whom they had given a lift was "Patricia Waterbury." But they knew she had come from Stanton and if Bob had the papers publish her picture in tomorrow's paper, in an effort to find her, wouldn't he

Mrs. Hooper Says Peace Based On Understanding

Oshkosh—(AP)—Believing that any treaties made by governments will be easier kept if the women of different countries understand each other, the General Federation of Women's Clubs is planning a series of conferences between American club women and those of Central and South America. They will be in Washington.

Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, chairman of international relations of the general federation, heads the effort. "When women of the world understand each other, wars will cease," Mrs. Hooper said.

FRENCH WOMEN FIGHT TO PLAY PELOTE GAME

Paris—(AP)—Women may practice any sport but pelote in Paris. They have tried for years to be permitted but the association that controls the picturesque Basque game regards women as unable to stand the strain. They may, however, play a variety of the game called "raquette," reputed to be a near ancestor of tennis.

Pelote is akin to handball in theory. The ball is propelled against a wall from the "chistera," a long narrow basket strapped to the wrist, shaped so that it is something like an elongated hand.

Women are seldom permitted to play pelote in the Basque country, along the Spanish border, but a group of Basque girls living here are determined to break down the barriers.

KEY HOMES TO GUIDE WOMEN IN HOMEMAKING

Denver—(AP)—Establishment of "key" homes over the country, through which home makers may receive expert advice on any problem, is the objective of Mrs. John D. Sherman of Estes Park, Colorado. She is in charge of a division of the General Federation of Women's clubs seeking to make things easier for the home maker. One key home has been established.

FOOTWEAR IS FLOWERY AT FRENCH RESORT

Cannes—(AP)—Flowery footwear for the afternoon is the Riviera's contribution to women's winter fashions. However flowery it is, it must match the pocketbook to be really stylish.

In general, shoemakers for women seem to be breaking away from traditional designs. They have offered more elaborate models than have been seen for years.

Plimpton's recognize it as a likeness of their temporary road-guest and hasten to inform the police that she had not been running away with a handsome young Mexican, but that, after they had let her leave their car in the dark on the state highway, she had been accosted by two "rough-looking" men? "Hathaway Girl Believed Kidnaped"—she repeated. "Well, then—she would be kidnaped!"

Are You Getting The Six Mineral Salts Your Body Must Have to Live? Rheumatic Pain, Constipation, Liver Trouble, Lowered Vitality Discussed—Best Way to Combat them

From the beginning of the world nature ordained that the human body must obtain 6 mineral salts to aid the internal organs to function properly. For many years men and women lived active, outdoor lives, breathed plenty of fresh air and obtained these six minerals from the raw, uncooked food they ate.

But this modern age—no wonder there's so much rheumatism, constipation and liver trouble. No wonder folks get up in the morning almost as tired as when they went to bed!

You are not getting these six vital salts for which every organ, nerve and gland is crying.

That's why KRUSCHEN SALTS—justly called one of the most helpful discoveries of science—will soon become an absolute necessity to the general health of mankind.

KRUSCHEN SALTS contain Sodium Sulphate, Magnesium Sulphur and Potassium Sulphate, which are a wonderful aid to the liver, bowels and kidneys in eliminating waste material.

KRUSCHEN SALTS contain a superbly balanced proportion of Sodium Chloride, Potassium Chloride and Potassium Iodine which clear the blood of harmful acids, stimulate the glands, skin and membranes to retained life and activity.

You get the benefit of all six salts that wealthy folks pay thousands of dollars to go abroad and drink at the Spas.

This Guarantee Protects You For your health's sake, get one 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts at Schlitz Bros. Co. Three Stores, Appleton and Menasha or any druggist anywhere—one bottle lasts 2 months.

Take one quarter teaspoon (generous measure) in a glass of hot water every morning. Do this regularly for 3 weeks—then if you don't say the Kruschen is the finest regulator of liver, kidneys and bowels in the world—if you don't feel better, more energetic, more active and ambitious, than you have for years, get your money back.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE man who owned the great big bear was queer, and made the Tintles stare. He wore a high plug hat, and it was funny as could be. His feet were big, and he was tall and skinny, and that wasn't all. His clothes fit very loosely, and his pants bagged at the knee.

All of a sudden he spoke out. "Till tell you what I'm all about. I travel 'round the country and make money with my bear. He knows a lot of clever tricks, but sometimes gets me in a fix. The people scamper when he howls. It gives them quite a scare."

"I've been to towns all o'er the land. I'm tired now, and can hardly stand. I think I'll sit and rest a while. Sit down! I'll tell you more." And then came forth a merry cheer. The bunch were very glad to hear the interesting story that the old man had in store.

When they were seated on the ground, their new friend pointed all around. Said he, "No matter where I point, be sure that I've been there. Fine wealth with Brum I can win. He keeps the money rolling in by showing off for people at most any county fair."

And then he said, "Hi, Brum! You had better show the tricks you do. 'Till please these little fellows, and they'll give you much applause." The bear began to snarl and prance. He turned a flip and did a dance. And then he finished up by standing on his two front paws.

"Hop on his back," the old man cried. "He'll gladly give you all a ride." The Tots all hopped and so did every single Tynymite. The bear ran 'round and 'round and 'round. Some riders slipped off to the ground. In fact they all fell off in time. 'Twas hard to hang on tight.

(The bunch go fishing in the next story.)

NEGRO SINGERS AT M. E. CHURCH VESPER SERVICE

The vesper service at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon will be featured by the Jackson Jubilee quartet in a program of Negro spirituals.

The apparently limitless repertoire of the Plantation Singers includes many of the old favorites such as "Roll, Jordan, Roll," and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," as well as scores of tuneful melodies, which, although not generally familiar, will linger long because of their rhythmic excellence. Many of their songs have been taken in crude state and harmonized by the best modern composers.

The Plantation Singers, notable for their close harmony, are the result of the vision and training of Robert Jackson, one of the outstanding musicians of the colored race. Mr. Jackson is a graduate of the University of Kansas and is head of the music department and dean of Western University in Kansas City, Kas. He is a native Kentuckian and a nephew of the late John H. Jackson, president of Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo. A man of education himself, he is an authority on Negro folk lore and Negro music at its best. Each member of his company is either a high school or college graduate, and all have had valuable experience on the concert stage.

After scratching it formed blisters, and later wet, sore eruptions. It was very severe and she could not sleep. She was cross and fretful and I had to tie her hands to keep her from scratching. The trouble lasted about four months.

"I tried a good many remedies but they did not do any good. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in three days could see an improvement, and in two weeks she was completely healed." (Signed, Mrs. Steve Slinka, Rt. 1, Beckett, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1928)

TAKE CARE OF BIRD COVEYS FOR THREE MORE WEEKS, PLEASE

Cooperation Will Be Appreciated by State, Commission Reports

Madison —(P)— If farmers and sportsmen will take care of coveys of birds over the state for another three weeks, the conservation department will be grateful.

The department has asked the cooperation of these individual in feeding the birds, who find little food because of snow.

The conservation commission urges sportsmen and farmers of the state to feed all coveys of game birds that can be found. If the birds can be taken care for the next three weeks, the commission believes the worst of the battle will be over.

Grain and grit are necessary for the birds if they are to come through the winter in good shape, the conservation heads said. Dead birds have been found that had full crops, were fat and in otherwise good condition. Their death could not be satisfactorily explained by cold, and experts said lack of grit seemed to be the only explanation.

Birds can get along for three or four weeks without grit, but after that it may become an important factor. It is essential, to their digestion and because it contains minerals and salt.

The commission's monthly report today showed 458 arrests for violations of the fish and game laws by conservation wardens during the two months from November 15 to January 15.

Names, addresses, and other information about the men arrested are made public on application to the commission.

Of the 458 arrests during this two-month period, 264, or more than half, were for violations of the hunting laws. One hundred seventy-eight had to do with deer laws. A large force of extra wardens was sent into the north woods during deer season.

Violations of the trapping laws accounted for 122 arrests; fishing for 41; carrying loaded guns in automobiles for 20; and securing hunting licenses illegally for eight.

A total of $14,305 was collected in fines during the two-month period.

USE MORE PICTURES TO PROMOTE CONSERVATION

Madison —(P)— Increased use of pictures in the promotion of conservation work is being made by the state conservation department.

Duane Kipp, director of publications and education for the commission is now in the north, completing the "shooting" of several scenes in motion pictures. Both he and the superintendent of game, C. W. Grange, are equipped with cameras.

News reel scenes of conservation work in the state are contemplated and the legislature is to be asked for a small sum for the picture work of the department during the next biennium.

The commission hopes to expand the camera work during the summer. Movies of wild life on Horicon Marsh were sought last fall, but were first spoiled by destruction of the blind behind which the cameras were to have been placed, then by inclement weather.

RADIO WILL PHONE REPORTS TO PLANES

Great Lakes, Ill. —(P)— Radio telephony is expected to replace telegraphy in government communication with commercial airplanes in transcontinental flight.

Already stations for radio telephone conversation with planes have been established at Cleveland, Bellefonte, Pa., and Hadley Field, N. J. Other stations will be set up in Chicago, Bryan, Ohio, Omaha and North Platte, Nebr., Cheyenne and Rock Springs, Wyo., Salt Lake City, Elko and Reno, Nev., and Oakland, Calif.

At hourly intervals this chain of stations will send out weather reports and information on landing conditions to aircraft in flight.

SCOUTS DO SHARE IN FEEDING WILD GAME

Scouts of the valley council are complying with the national appeal to feed wild life, by making week-end tours to swamps near this city with grain and other kinds of bird food, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

Scouts of the Silver Fox patrol of Troop 6 of the St. Mary church hiked to a swamp near here Saturday on skis and scattered a bushel of bread crumbs to birds. The old loaves were secured at a local bakery and were ground to crumbs. Those making the trip were Robert O'Neill, patrol leader, Chris and Richard Mullen, James Van Roy and Allen Warner.

REMOVAL OF SNOW HAS COST $9,000

Payroll for January $6,500 Higher Than Last Year, Commissioner Reports

Removal of snow from streets has cost approximately $9,000 so far this winter, it is estimated by R. H. Hackworth, street commissioner. The payroll for January ran about $6,500 higher than for the corresponding month last year, and the work is not nearly completed, he reported.

As a result of the heaviest snow fall in several years, many additional men were hired by the street department, and additional trucks were chartered to keep the streets open. Hundreds of truckloads of snow still remain to be hauled away, however, before the streets are in a condition satisfactory to the street department.

The rough, rutty condition of S. Cherry-st from College-ave south for about 100 feet was being remedied Wednesday. Workmen were loosening the snow and ice on the pavement, and were shoveling it into trucks to be hauled away.

The snow loader was put into operation on N. Superior-st Wednesday. The loader is being kept in the business district, and most of the streets in the downtown section are in good condition now.

Wisconsin Lady is Proud, Now

Don't allow your child to remain weakened or run-down for any length of time. In that condition, children are so easily attacked by the millions of tiny germs that are seething and swarming around us. And it's so easy to get the bilious, head achy, constipated, feverish, cross, fretful, puny, underweight ones back into condition, with a hearty appetite, rosy cheeks and abundant energy, by using a purely vegetable product which physicians have endorsed for over 50 years.

Children love the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup and it acts almost like magic to regulate their little bowels and stomachs. It gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do and you don't have to keep dosing your child. Four million bottles used a year and the enthusiastic words of mothers everywhere prove it gives satisfaction.

Another Wisconsin mother, Mrs. A. L. Marks, 534 Thirty-sixth St., Milwaukee, says: "My little daughter, Verna, suffered terribly from constipation until she got very weak, run-down and underweight. I gave her California Fig Syrup and in just a little while she was eating heartily and gaining weight. Soon she was her bright, normal self again."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name to avoid substitutes.

LOCAL STUDENTS HAVE ROLES IN PRE-PROM PLAY

Madison — Two Appleton students at the University of Wisconsin are assisting Chairman John Catlin in preparations for "The Prom Memory" to be given Friday night. Reid Winsay, classmate of Catlin, is a member of the pre-Prom play committee, and Frank Murphy, a sophomore, is on the decorations committee.

The play, Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" was presented to capacity houses at formal performances Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The decorations committee is transforming the marble halls of the Memorial Union building by means of lighting effects and tapestries. Orchids, Nile green, and silver, the Prom colors will furnish the color motif.

SOPHOMORES ARE HIGH IN ENGLISH

Tests Prove They Are Above
National Median, Final
Reports Indicate

Appleton high school sophomores are well above the national median in English composition, according to the results of the Pressey Diagnostic tests in composition which were given the sophomores in January.

Work in sentence structure, grammar, capitalization, and punctuation was included in the tests and the sophomores averaged from eight tenths percent in sentence structure, to five and eight tenths percent in grammar, above the national average. The national median is 17.2 in sentence structure, 19.0 in grammar, 22.8 in capitalization, and 17.3 in punctuation. The January median for the local class was 18.0 in sentence structure, 24.8 in grammar, 24.4 in capitalization, and 21.2 in punctuation.

The tests were similar to those given the sophomores in September to determine in which fields they were weakest. The results of the September tests showed the sophomores to be below the national median. The reasons for the high gains as evidenced in the January tests are the remedial work following the September tests, familiarity with the tests, and completion of the first semester's work in fundamentals.

U. W. TO OFFER COURSE ON HOME

Work Will Be Done by Mail
—Husbands as Well as Wives May Enroll

Madison — (U)—The University of Wisconsin will now attempt to teach, by mail, how to make and keep successful homes.

Wives, and husbands, if they wish, may soon take a course aimed at keeping the American home safe from the influences that wreck one home of every six and destroy the peace of many others, a course showing wives and mothers how to use the limited time and money at their disposal to produce not only physical comfort, but real enjoyment of life for herself and others.

The course has been named the "correspondence study in household administration," under the University extension division.

It was prepared by Miss Juliet Lita Dane, president of the American Home Economics association from 1926 to 1928, and director of the University extension work in home economics.

"Good cooking and good clothes are important in the home, but contentment and happiness, security and mutual benefit are all-important," she declared. "We shall continue the correspondence teaching of the household arts through constantly improved and modernized courses, but we must also learn how to fit home duties into the broader and more pressing responsibilities that the present age has forced on the wife and mother. Out of all the bewildering cross-currents of our present social order, let us hope to salvage the home, changed in many aspects but essentially the same—the institution most dear to all of us, yet the very center of the storm of unrest that is whipping society about so mercilessly today."

Among the subjects in the new course are family income, how to control spending, management of time, social conditions affecting the family, discord and disorganization in the home, conservation of the family, and aid to the modern home. The course is offered for university credit or for the use of home-makers in general.

The University extension work in home economics is thus to be expanded into line with the extension program for complete adult education series.

NORTHWEST AIRWAYS PILOT HOLDS RECORD

Chadwick B. Smith, pilot for the Northwest Airways, Inc., and one of the pilots who opened the Chicago, Milwaukee, Green Bay mail line through here in December, has laid claim to the world's record for most hours spent in the air during 1928.

Smith boasts 1,178 hours and 15 minutes in the air during the last year, which is 20 hours more than his nearest competitor, Frank Kelly of the Western Air Express company.

Pilot Smith who has charge of the Northwest Airways tri-motored 16-passenger plane over the Twin Cities-Chicago and return route every third day, is married, 25 years old, joined the airmail service July 8, 1927, has never had an accident, and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

As a first lieutenant in the 109th observation squadron, he also spent many hours in the air piloting government planes during his layovers in the Twin Cities.

QUESTIONNAIRES BEING RETURNED TO C. OF C.

Questionnaires sent out by the chamber of commerce with reference to continuing the publicity campaign under the direction of the Community Builders are being received by Kenneth Corbett, secretary. Considerable interest is being shown in the questionnaires and methods of continuing to advertise the community. The campaign which ran for a year and closed last October used newspaper ads, bill boards and circulars, to tell of advantages of the city.

Melbourne, the capital of Victoria, Australia, has increased in population from 177 in 1836 to about 1,000,000 at the present time.

Read what one of Appleton's hardest drivers thinks of Miller De Luxe.

On May 12th, 1928 I mounted 2-33x6.00 Miller De Luxe Tires on the rear wheels on my Buick Sedan. To date they have travelled over 25,000 miles in 200 days. One tire has never been off, the other tire has had one puncture. Day and night without a worry. It has convinced me that Miller's are better today than ever after using them for eleven years.

MAYOR TALKS ON HISTORY OF LIBRARY

Wendlandt Traces Growth Since First Efforts Were Made in 1895

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Mayor E. W. Wendlandt, in the second of his monthly talks before members of the common council Tuesday evening, gave the history of the New London public library, tracing it from the period of its organization in 1895. At this time, the mayor said, J. C. Freshoff, then principal of the high school, donated some 200 books from his own private collection, adding to this the sum of $200. The importance of this gift and others is shown in the record of the library, Miss Alice Freiburger, the librarian, on Feb. 1, 1928, had 6,732 volumes. In his first talk before the council Mr. Wendlandt gave an outline of the city's annual budget plan. He hopes at some future date to give a historical outline relative to the city's early days, its organization, first as a village and later when it was incorporated as a city. Continuing his sketch relative to the history of the library Mayor Wendlandt said that the further efforts of Mr. Freshoff were instrumental in gathering together other subscriptions and donations of books. When 1,031 volumes had been assembled, a public dedication service was held on July 4, 1895, the services being held in the city park at a picnic held under the auspices of the Woman's Temperance Union. The address upon that day was given by Rev. Mr. Millard, then pastor of the Congregational church and at this time Mr. Freshoff was presented with a book by the citizens of New London, as a token of appreciation.

ASSOCIATION IN 1895
The library association was organized July 2, 1895, the following officers being elected: president, W. H. Hutton; secretary, Miss Susie Dixon; treasurer, Walter Trayer; librarian, C. F. Carr; directors, W. B. Millard, Arthur Emde, Mrs. E. G. Andrus, Mrs. H. P. Patain, F. C. Weed, G. T. Davison, Miss Bradbury and Mrs. A. S. Ferguson. The books were at first kept in the offices of the New London Press, later transferred to the upper rooms in the Bank of New London. A later transfer was made to the Strickland Jewelry store, in the Melick block. Following the resignation of Mr. Carr as librarian, various members of the city donated their services. Among these were Mrs. Strickland, Miss Dixon, Miss Willett and Mrs. Davis. In 1896 a fund was raised by subscription to pay a regular librarian, this position being filled by Mrs. Edna Jost, then Miss Demming. Mrs. Jost remained as librarian until September, 1898, when she resigned, and Miss Maud Archibald became her successor. In 1899 the library consisted of 1,250 volumes. In April, 1900, the library was turned over to the city of New London and has since been supported by appropriations and looked after by a library board. Miss Archibald was librarian for two years. When she assumed charge the books were lodged in the main room of the city hall, on the first floor, but soon afterward the city council moved it to the Melick block. The library was then shifted to rooms in the Garrett Sullivan building, and the city hall, both in the city clerk's office and the justice's room. The next librarian was Mrs. C. Feathers, who served eight years, resigning in 1908. Miss Alice Miller then took charge. She was succeeded by Miss Maud Pelzer, who was followed by Miss Marjorie Stanley. At the latter's resignation, Miss Freiburger assumed the duties of librarian.

"NO TAIKED MONEY"
On Nov. 25, 1908, Andrew Carnegie offered to donate the sum of $10,000 to the city for the purpose of building a public library building. This offer was met with enthusiasm and the city was swayed by sentiment to the effect that no tainted money could be accepted. But when it became apparent that the city hall accommodations were most inadequate the council was instructed to write to Mr. Carnegie to renew his offer. Mr. Carnegie in 1903 and to increase the offer to $12,000. The council voted to devote the $500 which had already been offered to obtain additional room and also toward the purchase of a site. They voted also to appropriate $12,000 annually for library purposes, provided $12,000 could be secured for the building; or $1,000 annually if only $10,000 could be secured. The Carnegie authorities decided that only $10,000 could be given to the city of New London. In this same year, 1913, the present site was secured and to that fund W. H. Hutton contributed $500. In July, 1913, the plans of Victor Thomas were accepted by the board and the Carnegie foundation. Work was begun upon the building which was dedicated in May, 1914. The present library board consists of G. T. Dawley, president; Frank L. Zaig, Rev. F. S. Dayton, H. S. Riche, the Rev. Adolph Spiering, secretary; Mrs. Carrie Archibald-Hooper and R. J. McMahon. The library received from the Emma Carr estate, $21,000 and from the D. Jennings estate $250.

Palace Theatre Is Installing Vitaphone and Making Other Changes

Waupaca—At a cost of several thousands of dollars a vitaphone is being installed in the Palace Theatre here. The newly enclosed foyer of the theatre has also been completed, giving greater protection to patrons of the showhouse, and new machinery has been installed to improve the screen presentations. "Talkies" are not new to people of this community, but this is the first time that they have been available in Waupaca.

Col. John Turner is the first Waupaca man to sign up for the good will tour, to advertise Wisconsin in the south, from Feb. 25 to March 9. The colonel, who is in very poor health, is taking the tour partly for his health. Assemblyman D. F. Burnham also may be one of the delegates.

The Waupaca Boy Scout troop, with Seth Ballard as leader, with their parents, will attend a banquet in the Baptist church Tuesday evening. Speakers will be the Rev. Henry N. Hansen and G. N. Doody. The remainder of the program will be special music and recitations by the scouts. At an early hour Sunday the scouts will attend services at St. Saviours Lutheran church.

The members of St. Agnes Guild were entertained at the home of Mrs. Gaywood Skinner Tuesday evening.

Miss Dorothy Hetzel spent the weekend in Appleton.

The members of the F. S. G. club met at the home of Mrs. John Friberg Tuesday evening.

The following Waupaca young people returned to their schools after spending the mid-winter semester vacation at their respective homes in the city: Miss Ruth Smith and Mercedes Mendelson, University of Wisconsin, and Oliver Stratton and Alton Scott to Lawrence college, Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Stratton will leave Monday for Milwaukee where they will spend a day visiting relatives, and then go on to Chicago where they will spend the remainder of the week.

In the C. W. basketball conference, Waupaca won by a score of 84 to 5 from Manawa at the local high school Tuesday afternoon. Waupaca will play Weyauwega Friday night.

DRUNKEN DRIVER

Gust Soderstein of the town of Scandinavia was arrested Monday night by Sheriff Arthur Steenbock on a charge of driving his car while intoxicated. He was arrested on highway 49 between Waupaca and Scandinavia where he had his car parked across the highway so that none could pass. He was taken before Justice S. W. Johnson Tuesday morning where he pleaded guilty and was given a fine of $75 and costs and a 30 day jail sentence. In case he fails to pay the fine within 30 days he will have to serve an additional 60 days in the county jail at Waupaca.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

HARRY MARX HANGS HIMSELF IN BARN

Greenville Farmer Was in Ill Health — Despondency Blamed for Act

Greenville—Harry Marx, 47, of the town of Greenville, committed suicide at 10:30 Wednesday morning by hanging himself from a rafter in the hayloft of his barn. Despondency, resulting from ill-health, is believed responsible.

His wife was suspicious of his actions early Wednesday morning and followed him to the barn where he was about to do his daily chores. He asked her to go back to the house and get busy, and she explained that she would help him with the chores.

He insisted, however, and Mrs. Marx went to the house for several minutes. When she finally went back to the barn she found him hanging from a rope attached to a rafter in the hayloft.

He is survived by his widow, two children Norman at home, and Mrs. E. W. Stern, New London; his mother, Mrs. Henry Marx and a sister Mrs. O. E. Sylvester both of Jefferson.

DEPARTMENT KNOWS WHAT LATINS WANT FROM THIS COUNTRY

Careful Survey Is Maintained for Manufacturers in United States

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

(Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)
Washington — What does Latin America want to buy from the United States?

The answer is as readily obtained here in Washington at the Department of Commerce as in a tour through Central and South America. For years the department has maintained a clearing house for this sort of information which is so valuable to the manufacturer. Working through our representatives over the world in furtherance of the integral part of our foreign policy concerning promotion of our foreign trade, it has helped immensely in development of our export market.

American firms have gone to South America and other parts of the world to push their products with advertising and promotion drives as intensive as they have waged at home. Some of these have, that is, and that means the larger corporations. But there are thousands of smaller manufacturers whose size does not justify or permit establishment of world-wide sales organizations, although their products could frequently be sold in substantial quantities in this country or that.

It is these producers especially who are benefited by the tip system of the Department of Commerce which broadcasts weekly a list of the articles in which foreign merchants, agents and consumers are interested. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce provides the bulletins to any manufacturer who requests them, releasing them simultaneously over the country through its 70 or more district or co-operative offices so that everyone will have an equal chance at the business.

More than 35,000 such requests have been received from abroad since the service was instituted. In most instances the inquirers have sought to act as agents or as both purchasers and agents.

Latin-American business men have made extensive use of it. In one week the bureau recently listed 30 manufactured articles concerning which it had inquiries from Argentina.

These included advertising novelties — such as rulers and celluloid articles, rubber aprons, caps, gloves and balloons, bicycles, cardboard, insecticides, leather articles, paints, petrolatum, plumbing, toys, whippersnappers, electric wiring supplies, concert mixers, cutlery, lumber, elevators, glassware, hardware, stoves, kitchen utensils, medicines, carpenters' tools and steel window and door casements.

Colombia has been asking about bath robes, canned fruit and vegetables, children's clothing, corsets, cut glass, automobile gloves, haberdashery, linen goods, photographic supplies, razors, sanitary ware, sporting goods, tropical suits, toilet articles, tools, trunks and suitcases, umbrellas and parasols, underwear, watches and alarm clocks.

Uruguay has expressed interest in cochineal, electric and player pianos, radio sets and parts, copper distilling machinery for making alcohol and sugar refining machinery.

Brazil has inquired about patent leather, tools to be used in orchards, sport model airplanes, tin foil, agricultural machinery, asbestos, automobiles and motorcycles, camping factory machinery, farm lighting sets, shellac, hardware, lard making machinery, pipe, electric refrigerator, rosin, slaughter house equipment, caustic soda, spices, sulphur, tin plate and wire.

Other articles which have recently been made the subject of similar inquiries from Latin-American countries include cotton yarn, candy, ash trays, dried fruit, hosiery, canned fish, cotton piece goods, rice, yarn, bathhouse metal tags for cattle and poultry, food for invalids and children, grocery specialties, baking powder, nails, iron-roofing, tin plate for bottle caps, rubber shoes — and enough other things to indicate that the demand for our goods is extremely varied.

University, declared in a Farm Folks Week address today.

"Sometimes we take too seriously any slight evidence that the family is not at all times harmonious," she said. "When the entire family seems to be living in perfect harmony, you will often find that someone is 'sitting on the lid.' It is not altogether a healthy state of affairs, because when difficulties are kept too closely under cover, they are likely to encourage brooding and self-pity."

Modern industrial and social conditions have brought a change in family relations which make difficult the maintenance of the "old family," Miss Bane said. "With outside interests easily available and clamoring for attention and support, with less apparent need on the part of the household, it is small wonder that we do not have the same kind of unity in our homes."

"We can have satisfactory family life without duplicating the old type, but it requires careful and conscientious cultivating. Happiness in family life doesn't 'just grow.' It must be intelligently sought for."

House Caught On Stage Of New York Hippodrome

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

New York — Among the anecdotes evoked by sale of the old Hippodrome theater is one about Col. E. M. House, which he has not included in his memoirs.

One night during the war, Colonel and Mrs. House went to the Hippodrome with John Golden and were taken back-stage by R. H. Burnside, then the producer of its spectacles.

Burnside had led the party out into the very center of the stage, the largest in the country, not being aware that it was so near curtain time, and was pointing out the marvels of the place to House while 800 actors took their places for the opening number. Suddenly the curtain was lifted and the show was on with the visitors standing among the extras.

Fortunately they were in evening dress and so were many of the spectators. Burnside therefore counseled his guests not to bolt for the wings but to mingle with the actors and make their exit gradually. They did so, with excellent stage presence, and probably without being recognized by anyone in the audience. The colonel avowed that it was his first and would be his last stage appearance.

The Hipp's fate has not been sealed, but its doom has been impending since 1923 when the property became too valuable for a mere theater site. Until that time, as the world's largest theater (it still is), it housed great spectacles, most famous of which were its animal acts.

Scouts for the Hippodrome were constantly combing Europe for these acts, and one day word came that the most ferocious troupe of lions in captivity was on its way to New York to join the menagerie. The animals were as ugly as represented.

The night of their first showing arrived. The lions, advertised on lithographs throughout the city as man-killers, were transferred, an hour or two before the performance, to a cage in the wings. It was hot, and the beasts were panting when the curtain went up on their act.

When the trainer entered the cage the audience stirred apprehensively. But the animals did not budge. He prodded them with his iron fork and they merely twitched their ears and flanks as if to shake off a fly. He prodded and prodded, and still they showed no more ferocity than house-dogs. The trainer, in despair, finally signalled the curtain down. Before it fell, Diamond Jim Brady, sitting in the front row, spoke up. "Try giving them a cracker," he suggested.

There may be another Hippodrome

PAY FOR MAIN ON FREMONT-ST WHEN "HOOK-UP" IS MADE

Procedure Is Approved by Council on Recommendation of Committee

Residents on Fremont-st will not have to pay water main assessments until they "hook up" with the city water system, the common council decided Wednesday night. The council followed the recommendation of the board of public works in taking this action.

The main was laid to supply water some day, to catch the juvenile trade which has been virtually untapped since the indoor circus was abandoned. Burnside already is being approached with suggestions for a new one, with even more seats than the 6,100 in the present structure built where property is less valuable so it can make a profit.

on the municipal golf course completed in the Fourth ward last fall. Mayor A. C. Rulo pointed out. Otherwise, there was no call for water there, as only a few people live on that part of the street where the main was laid.

Agreements to this effect will be secured with the property holders by the city attorney, and the city clerk was instructed to serve a certified copy of the resolution providing for the deferred payment to the water department.

Addition of four men to the city fire department was approved upon recommendation of the fire and water committee. The clerk also was instructed to advertise for bids for $2,000 feet of fire hose. An additional allowance of $10 a month to finance operation of the city electrician's automobile was approved, as was proposed construction of a water main on Wisconsin-st this year from Summit to Mason-st.

The council approved Mayor Rulo's reappointment of James Wood on the park board. Mr. Wood's term expired Jan. 1. A term on the park board is five years.

In order to allow the mayor and A. C. Bosser, city attorney, to attend a meeting at Kaukauna called by Mayor W. C. Sullivan of that city to attempt to iron out the difficulties existing over bus license fees charged by various municipalities served by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., the council adjourned at 9 o'clock until next Wednesday night. Considerable unfinished business awaits transaction at that meeting.

Among the latest developments in agricultural machinery is a caterpillar tractor pulling five grain drills for a 55 foot sweep. Two men can plant 150 acres in a 10-hour day in this manner.

West Bay Highs Conceded Chance To Beat Appleton

MEET ORANGE ON ARMORY G FLOOR FRIDAY EVENING

Invaders Lineup Features Valley's Second High Scorer

ONE of the few basketball teams in the valley conference is given a partial chance to beat Appleton high school will perform here Friday night in armory. G when West Green Bay high school invades the city. Until their defeat by East Green Bay a few weeks ago the West Bays were considered as contenders for the valley pennant. Their recent defeat at Oshkosh has almost eliminated the west siders from running.

But the Bays still are a potential threat to teams in the conference as is shown by the fact that they boast the second high scorer in the conference, a youngster named Kallmann. This chap has been able to run wild in most games and has been considered for an all conference position ever since the season opened.

The remainder of the Bay squad has held its own with every team in the league. They don't appear to have any stars aside from Kallmann, but do boast of a consistent group of players that can battle with the best. Their defeat at the hands of Oshkosh last week by an overwhelming score is considered one of the things that can't be helped. The Sawdust city gang was the exception against the Bays.

Although they face possibilities of a trimming, the Appleton cage squad isn't worrying much. It's no secret that they feel pretty good about their ability to scamper on the cage floor and also realize that offensively they haven't rated much except in the Sheboygan game.

The main entanglement other squads find when they clash with the locals is the Orange defense. To date the highs have had less points scored against them than any other team in the league. Two good steady guards in Schaefer and Kunitz have been augmented by the general guard game of Gochbauer, and as a result it's harder getting to the Appleton basket than crashing a bargain counter in a department store. Offensively the Highs haven't rated although they showed well in the Sheboygan game. Here, however, their opponents showed so plucky an attack that the Orange didn't have to bother much. And in the meantime Berg and Gochbauer crashed through with a flock of baskets and free throws.

Captain Benny Rafath will be back in the lineup Friday according to reports. He has been suffering from a boil on his leg and was out of the Sheboygan game, because of the infection. However, the attending physician informed Coach Shields that the youngster could play just after Shields finished singing the blues about his chances for Friday night.

BADGER BEES PLAY RIPON ON SEPT. 28

Schedule for U. of W. Seconds Is Announced Wednesday

Madison—(P)—The "B" team idea at the University of Wisconsin has apparently gone over, for the Badger athletic department Wednesday announced a seven game schedule for the reserve squad, that will again be under the guidance of Coach Irv Uteritz, who, in turn will be ably seconded by the newly appointed assistant, Rube Wagner.

Return conference clashes for the reserves are carded with Michigan and Illinois, the Uteritz team winning from the Wolves last fall but dropping the final game on their schedule to the Illini. Another conference foe will be tackled in the Minnesota eleven at the Norsemen's big Notre Dame's reserves provide plenty of action on another weekend.

The Badgers had a two year contract with the Oshkosh State Teachers' college eleven, but were forced to drop the Hancock team this fall due to the fact that the Badgers had but the date of Nov. 16 open. This same date is also open on the varsity schedule and thus prevents the reserves from filling the same. The conference rule forbids a school from playing football on more than eight Saturdays. As the varsity date is open at that time, the Reserves are forced to cancel their contract with Oshkosh.

The complete schedule of the Reserves is as follows: Sept. 28—Ripon college at Madison. Oct. 5—Stevens Point Teachers' college at Madison. Oct. 12—Michigan "B" at Ann Arbor.

Oct. 19—Illinois "B" at Madison. Oct. 26—Open. Nov. 2—Notre Dame "B" at South Bend. Nov. 9—Minnesota "B" at Minneapolis. Nov. 15—Open. Nov. 23—La Crosse Teachers' college at Madison.

MEXICO CREATES MEDAL TO REWARD AIR HEROES

Mexico City—(P)—A new decoration, the Aerial Medal of Merit, has been created by the government to reward flyers for outstanding achievements.

The medals are of gold and only three of them have been awarded to date, one to the widow of Captain Corrales, Mexican coast guard pilot, who was killed in the United States; one to Lieut. Col. Roberto Pardo, who flew to Cuba and Central America, and one to Major Gustavo Leon, who circumnavigated Mexico in a plane.

St. Louis—Henry Leonard, Chicago, won on a foul from Benny Bass Philadelphia (3). Joey Rivers, Kansas City, stopped Claude Wilson, Birmingham (3).

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

And an Atlanta sports writer threatened to shoot on sight or poison any one of the players who gets married before the Tournament of Roses game in 1930. . . . BADGERS HAVING SUCCESSFUL YEAR IN SPORTS WORLD

Grid and Cage Teams Have Lost Only One Game During Season

MADISON—With the Wisconsin basketball team in the thick of the fight for Western Conference championship honors and the Badger football fans are still talking about the gallant stand made by Glenn Thistlethwaite's eleven in the race last fall, a survey of Badger athletics during the semester just closed indicates that the all-around average of the Badgers indicates this season will be considerably in advance of the record in recent years.

No more than one defeat has been suffered by the Badgers in any one sport this far in the year. The composite record shows that Wisconsin teams have captured 28 contests while losing seven and tying two. Their percentage is an even .800, while the highest record of the year 1927-28 was in the neighborhood of .556.

The Cardinal representatives in four sports have yet to get under way, but the coaches in track, baseball, swimming and crew are preparing for a busy season when the second semester begins Feb. 11.

The Badger gridder contributed materially to the impossible record by winning six games, losing one, and drawing one. Their fight for the conference title, which was brought to a close only by a powerful Minnesota eleven, kept Wisconsin students and alumni on edge during the entire autumn. Coach Irv Uteritz, in the first year of the "B" team plan, brought his charges through a slate of five battles with only one setback.

Although finishing fourth to Indiana in the conference meet, Coach Tom Jones' barriers were successful in two out of three of their dual meets. It was the first time in five seasons that the Badgers failed to win the Big Ten crown.

Athletic Director George Little's hopes for few or no second division teams this year have been dashed by the loss of the basketball team to the Wolves last fall but dropping the final game on their schedule to the Illini. Another conference foe will be tackled in the Minnesota eleven at the Norsemen's big Notre Dame's reserves provide plenty of action on another weekend.

OUT OF THE PAST

JOE HUMPHRIES, clarion-voiced announcer, posed so often with his celebrities that no album would be complete unless his face appeared even and anon on its pages.

His face, incidentally, was quite a good-looking one in the old days, as can be seen in this picture. Joe, the middle figure in the rear line, was quite a heart-breaker when this group posed at South Beach, N. Y., in the early nineties. He would hardly qualify as a Don Juan today, but nevertheless he is known to thousands upon thousands of fight enthusiasts.

No big fight show in the vicinity of New York would be complete unless Humphries shambled through the ropes, his jaws working industriously on a cud of gum, and introduced everybody from the timekeeper to the principals. Frequently Joe becomes twisted over words of several syllables, but this only adds to his colorful personality.

Thirty-odd years have rolled on their way since Joe and some of the boys gathered together for this photograph. The day's work, which consisted of training and talking, was over, and they were rather anxious to hang up their derbies and rest their elbows on the dinner table.

The young man sitting directly in front of Humphries is Casper Leon, 105-pound champion of America. He was the first Italian to wear such a crown.

On Leon's left is Jimmy Curran, English lightweight, and sitting on his right is Charley White, one of the most renowned referees in the history of American pugilism.

Frank Alt, manager, is standing behind White. The rather ferocious-looking gentleman standing on the left is Angelo Napoli, well-known trainer of boxers and wrestler of ability.

Around The Sport World

ONE VOTE FOR SHARKEY

A STRIBLING, on a scouting expedition, was one of the witnesses at the recent Sharkey-Christie thing in New York. The father of Willie, who has a date with Sharkey in Miami next month, was not one of the reported many who thought that the 35-year-old rubber puffer of Akron should have copped the decision from Sharkey.

Pa, who made a lot of charts and graphs of the big Boston noise maker, marked down seven rounds for Sharkey and awarded only two to the old man from Akron, as Dan Morgan calls the town.

"Maybe I was a little biased," Pa added naively. "Because I wanted Sharkey to win so badly."

Pa thinks that his boy Willie is a cinch to win because Sharkey can be hit by a right hand and, apparently, he thinks that his boy Willie can hit as hard as Christner.

WASN'T EVEN ORIGINAL

Pa chuckled when he told the New York sports writers about the wire that Willie had sent to Sharkey before the fight.

Willie's well wishes were as follows: "Don't let this big bum hit you on the chin. Save it for me."

The Striblings apparently have been told about the goat getting stunts that some of the old-timers used to pull. And, if we're not mistaken, the message was an exact copy of the one that George Engel used to send around when he was handling Harry Greb.

BUT IT'S WARM IN FLORIDA, BILL

Bill Evans, who ought to know something about the subject, does not agree with the theory that spring training is necessary for an umpire.

"All a qualified umpire needs is exercise to keep down his weight and he can get that in a gymnasium," he said. "One look at a fast ball and a curve ought to be enough to get his eyes in shape. Working in 20 or 30 games before the regular season starts is nothing but an unnecessary strain that will be felt in the second half of the season."

HIS FUTURE WAS PAST

Joe Cox, a star guard on the Ohio State basketball team for several seasons, quit the squad recently and joined a semi-pro team in Columbus. He wanted another letter and all that and he loved his Alma Mater but he couldn't see the coach's way of doing things, he told friends in Dayton.

"The coach said the team wasn't going any place this year and that he had to build for the future," he said. "He pulled me out of a regular position and put me on the bench and put in Foster and Larkins to get them some experience for the next two years. I wasn't going to sit on the bench, so I just quit."

STORING UP THE RAZZ

The Down Town Coaching Association of Columbus, which rode Dr. Face Wilson out of the coaching job at Ohio State, accepted passively the inauguration of a new football administration headed by Sam Williamson, George Hauser and Don Miller.

"They're just keeping quiet for a year," a Columbus man said recently. "They'll give it to William next fall and give it to him plenty."

BELOIT WILL TRY TO BEAT REDMEN

Gold Feeling Confident After Winning Last Three Games

Beloit—Determined to add another game to their string of victories, the Beloit college basketball team are making special efforts to be ready for Ripon in the game to be played here Friday night.

Ripon has eleven Beloit its most defeat already, and Coach Roy Bohler's quintet now is "out for blood" to avenge the 29 to 16 score piled up about a month ago.

Beloit has been the consistent scorer for Ripon, and Bohler is preparing for him, building up a stronger defense than Beloit has had. At the same time he is keeping Louis and Jack Bottino and his other stellar players trained to shoot the ball into the baskets as accurately as they have been doing the past two years.

Following the Ripon game, Beloit will again take on Carroll here, marking the last of a series of home games.

NO CHANGES NOTED AMONG LEADERS IN KEGLING TOURNEY

Milwaukee, Burlington, Fondy, Sheboygan Teams on Drives

SHEBOYGAN—(P)—The maples on the state tournament alleys enjoyed another brief respite during the morning, afternoon and early evening shifts Wednesday as pin men from Milwaukee, Burlington, Fond du Lac and Sheboygan hammered away at the stubborn sticks without gaining any noticeable advantage. Leaders in all events were unchanged.

Rolling on late night shifts, however, the Clark Oil company of Manitowish made 2784 with counts of 873, 1003 and 908. E. Dussold led with 628. L. Wagner and K. Krueger of Burlington, rolling in the doubles event, turned in the best count of the day, a 1185 total comprising game counts of 350, 441 and 388. Other good scores but not strong enough to threaten the present four leaders were 1152 by E. Gabel—A. Wiseman of Milwaukee, 1163 by J. Hansen and J. Mattheis of Fond du Lac and 1157 by J. Kohn and E. Rulman of Milwaukee. L. Hansen also contributed a single game tally of 248.

The efforts of keglers rolling in the individual events were barren of outstanding marks.

Fraternity Order of Eagles boosters of Sheboygan took the drives of an early evening shift but their best marks were short of the leadership qualifications.

HARRY KAHN MEETS RUSS LEROY AT BAY

Feature Card Being Arranged by Brown County Fight Club

Green Bay—Grudge battle is an expression which is worn threadbare from use and its use has most often been a publicity come-along, but "grudge battle" seems to be a literal and meaningful description when it is applied to the match between Harry Kahn and Russ Leroy, which will feature the midwinter fight festival of the Brown County Boxing Club at Green Bay on Feb. 25.

In the first place Jack Hurley who dubs his California protégé "The Second Section of the Fargo Express"—one Billy Petrolle being the first, has talked so long and so loud about young Mr. Leroy and has so persistently demanded a tilt with "Mush" Calahan, who wears the junior welter crown, is naturally "burning up" over the fact that Chicago promoters have invited Kahn for just a battle. Hurley and Russ have been hurt. And Hurley is vengeful, when full recognition is not accorded one of his boys. Then Harry Kahn aspires again to leadership in his home town. When he shot upwards in the fight game a few years ago he had Pink Mitchell and Joey Sangor shooting along in the same direction at the same time. Now Pink is shelved and Joey hankers for retirement and the alert Kahn sees Milwaukee electing him her pride and joy, if he can topple over a few top-notchers and deserve it.

The preliminaries will feature Louie LaMay with the popular puncher Chief Elkhardt, middleweights, for eight rounds. The six rounder has been awarded to Johnny Busch, the best in Sheboygan and Ted Aker, of Oshkosh. These two boys are among the limited number of "fighters who fight" and have more than once "stolen" the show from the big timers who had drawn the crowd at Green Bay. The opening evening makes Jack Hanley, rancy 135 pounder, with Norm Green a popular kid who has just stepped over the line from the amateur game.

WINTER REIGNS KING AS WAUSAU FROLIC BEGINS

University of Wisconsin
Sends Ice and Hockey
Teams to Carnival

WAUSAU—(P)—King Winter had gloriously arrived in the northland as the second day of the third annual Wausau winter frolic got under way Wednesday with the opening of athletic events.

In an elaborate ceremony, Miss Grace Prall was crowned her majesty, queen of winter, in the open air palace in Stewart park Wednesday night, and this afternoon the first of the skating races are to begin, under the direction of Clyde Ewers, high school coach.

Five skating events for grammar and high school boys and girls are scheduled for this afternoon. The events will be on the high school rink, and will precede an exhibition skating demonstration by Alyce and Harry Shipstad, Minneapolis professionals. The first of the grade school hockey eliminations also will be held.

The Izaak Walton league chapter here is preparing to entertain all frolicers at a free venison bouillon dinner Thursday night in Rothschild park in honor of the evening which has been set aside in the league's honor. F. O. Crocker and an "Ike" Walton committee are in charge of arrangements.

Two hockey games are scheduled for later in the evening, one of which will feature women's teams—the Red Birds and the White Birds. The first of the eliminations in the Midwest hockey amateur championship will bring together the Wausau Cardinals and the University of Wisconsin six.

Three skate events are on the schedule, while the Shipstads will give a fancy skating exhibition and the University of Wisconsin skating team, which arrived this morning with 12 hockey players and five skiers, is to do barrel jumping.

The opening game of the Wausau bronchial champions will bring the Lions and the "Y" Men's club together Thursday night, while public skating, curling matches and dancing at the park pavilion also are planned by the committee.

Hockey matches announced Wednesday by John Farquhar, in charge of arrangements, bring the Wausau and Badger sixes together tonight in the first round.

Friday evening, the Marquette (Mich.) Owls are to meet the Eveleth (Minn.) Junior college, and the Michigan School of Mines is to meet St. Mary college of Winona, Minn.

The last of the first round games is to be played Saturday afternoon with the Kenosha Ke-Nash-A opposing St. Mary's college of St. Paul.

Finals in the championship and consolation rounds are scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

MAYOR OPPOSED TO STREET EXTENSION

Too Few Property Holders

Extension of W. Second-st from S. Bounds-st west across the railroad right-of-way will be opposed by Mayor A. C. Rule, he told the common council Wednesday night after the council had adopted the report of the streets and bridges committee recommending such action.

"I will veto this measure," the mayor said. "I do think it right that the city should have to finance such an expensive undertaking when only one or two property owners are concerned, and I know that any attempt by the city to carry out this proposal will result in trouble with the railroad company. The company does not want the street to cross its tracks there."

Alderman George Richard answered the mayor by saying he could not see any harm in having the engineer take up the matter with the railroad company to determine its attitude on the project. He pointed out that approval of such action did not mean that the city would go ahead with the street opening, but merely determine the feasibility of such an undertaking.

A public meeting regarding the proposed widening of E. Lawrence-st from S. Oneida to S. Durkee-sts. will be held shortly, the council decided. Although the city is considering this project, objection has been filed by several residents on the streets, and the council wishes to learn what the majority sentiment on the street is.

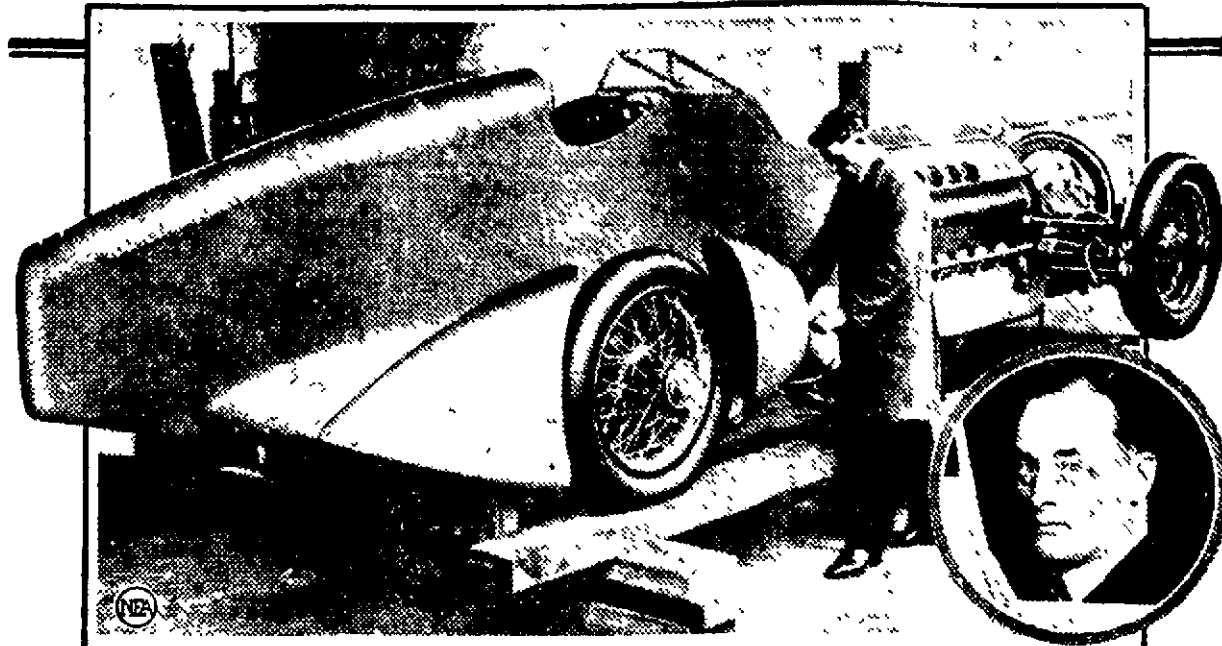

The committee's recommendation, approved by the council, also deferred action on the proposed widening of Oneida-st.

Frolicers' coughs, colds, croup, whooping coughs, and troublesome night coughs are so quickly eased and helped by Foley's Honey and Tar Compound that thousands of mothers everywhere rely upon it and are not disappointed. Children like it—no opiate. Mothers endorse it—no chloroform. All users recommend it. Mrs. Nelda Weigel, Calvary, Wis., says: "My mother says there is no better medicine for coughs and colds than Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and we find it so."

REFER PROPOSAL FOR NEW LIGHTS TO COUNCIL GROUP

Aldermen Balk at Catlin Resolution Seeking Permission for Installation

Holding that there "was something queer about the whole thing," the common council Wednesday night failed to approve a resolution introduced by Alderman Mark Catlin giving "a certain group of business men permission to erect a temporary lighting system on College-ave. Instead, the matter was referred to the street lighting committee.

The Catlin resolution sought direct permission for the installation. Various groups in the city have been considering erection of a new ornamental lighting system on the avenue and Alderman Catlin said he was offering the resolution merely at the request of some businessmen to permit demonstration of a system.

"I presume this is an attempt by the Westinghouse people to get ahead of the General Electric co. in giving a demonstration of its lighting system here," Alderman C. D. Thompson said. "Both companies are interested in selling the city a new lighting system."

"I do not believe, however, one company should be given undue advantage over the other. If a temporary installation is made by one of the companies, comparison of the system will be had only with the old system, instead of with other modern systems. I believe this matter should be referred to the street lighting committee."

Mayor Rule was of a like opinion. "There is something funny about this whole thing, and I am opposed to having it rushed through like this," he said.

Alderman John Diederich also argued that the resolution be referred to the committee. He said if the proposal was allowed by the council after such short notice, the action might shed a "bad light" on any transaction that might be entered into later on if a new lighting system is installed on the avenue.

Alderman Catlin denied that there was anything underhanded about his resolution. He explained that he had merely been approached with the request to secure this permission and that he would not oppose referring it to the committee if that was the council's wish.

A process has been discovered in Germany by which oxygen can be manufactured and delivered in liquid form in light brass containers instead of the heavy steel tanks formerly used and requiring two men to carry. The gas is reduced to a liquid, poured into specially devised containers on automobile trucks, and is carried from plant to plant much as gasoline or oil is delivered. The needs of the customers are supplied by merely opening a faucet and letting the desired quantity run into the small containers supplied to each customer.

STUDY MAY CUT SHIPPING FEVER LOSS BY MILLIONS

REAL REMEDIES ARE OFFERED BY EXPERTS' GROUP

Malady Is Found to Occur in Three Forms, Two of Which Are Conspicuous

BY FRANK I. WELLER

WASHINGTON—(P)—Losses that sometimes have run as high as 8 per cent of the livestock shipped and are calculated to total millions of dollars annually may be materially decreased by the application of methods recommended by a special committee on hemorrhagic septicemia, or "shipping fever."

The malady occurs in three forms, of which the enteric and pneumonic are chiefly conspicuous. It was on the latter that the committee, headed by E. C. Brown of the National Livestock Exchange, did most of its work. Other members were Charles E. Day, representing the National Traders' Exchange; Dr. W. J. Embree, the Western Weighing and Inspection Bureau; and the railroads; L. W. Kube, the public stockyards; and E. C. Keiser, the National Livestock Producers' association.

In many of its symptoms, the fever corresponds to influenza, or the more severe colds to which humans are subject. The organism that causes it apparently is ever-present, ready to infect cattle, sheep, and swine that suffer a lowered vitality. The spread of the disease seems to depend even more on the common cold and susceptibility of the animals than upon its contagious nature, since thin, poorly nourished young stock most frequently become infected and die.

Dr. A. W. Miller, chief of the packers and stockyards division of the federal bureau of animal industry, whose scientific investigations were made the basis of the committee's report, says the principal loss to the livestock industry is not in the animals that die, but from those that shrink and require intensive treatment and additional feeding before they get back into marketable condition.

A perfectly normal animal, he explains, may undergo over-exercution or exposure on the farm or en route to market and within a few hours become a victim of hemorrhagic septicemia. Death may occur from one to eight days, or the animal may linger in a fevered, debilitated, and emaciated condition, refusing feed and staggering from weakness for an indefinite period before recovery is effected. Normally, individual losses approximate 3 per cent of the stock shipped.

Heretofore numerous remedies have been sought and some have been effective, particularly vaccination with suitable biological products. The committee after an exhaustive study of both the scientific and practical aspects of the question, is convinced that losses sustained in the past were largely preventable by improved methods of handling.

Careful Loading Prevents Fever

Investigations reveal that animals are attacked by "shipping fever" when they have been weakened. Careful loading is recommended by Dr. A. W. Miller (inset). Below is his idea of the way a stock car should be papered around the sides and bedded with straw for winter shipments.

ROEPKE HERD IS HIGH PRODUCER

Leads Cicero Black Creek Herd Improvement Association in January

Then Henry Roepke herd of registered and grade Holstein cattle led the Cicero Black Creek Herd Improvement association in average production records in January.

According to the monthly report of William Yorkman, official tester. The average record of the herd was 1,217 pounds of milk and 35.9 pounds of butterfat. A high grade Holstein owned by Arnold Stephan was high individual producer with 1,322 pounds of milk and 65.3 pounds of butterfat. Her record was followed closely by a high grade Holstein owned by Frank Tubbs, which produced 1,649 pounds of milk and 64.3 pounds of fat.

Following is a record of the eight high herds:

There were 322 cows that finished the month with an average production of 674 pounds of milk or 26 pounds of fat. Forty cows produced over 40 pounds of fat and are owned by the following members:

- Emil Mueller, 3; Charles Mueller, 4; Frank Tubbs, 3; Herbert Tubbs, 3; Herman Miller, 1; Ed. Kluge, 3; Nick Rottler, 1; Edw. Sassman, 3; Christ Roepke, 1; Arnold Stephan, 2; Ray Daniels, 3; Claude Armatage, 2; Guy Daniels, 4; Hilb. Wittuhn, 2; E. Wittuhn, 1; Walter Blake, 3.

expected to be about 6 per cent larger than for the preceding season, and stocks in primary markets have been increased. Last season's slight reduction in supplies and active foreign demand this season have strengthened prices for lower grades wools. This season's larger wool supplies and the declining tendency in foreign prices have not been reflected by a decline in prices of wool in the United States.

The number of horses continues to decline, and is now at the lowest point in forty years. Judging by the number of colts born in 1928, says the bureau, the number of horses will continue to decline. Horse prices are advancing. The bureau advises that now seems to be an excellent time for many farmers to replace old or worn-out horses with young animals. The number of dairy cows is reported as about the same as a year ago, but yearling heifers and heifer calves show some increase in numbers.

In the past, says the bureau, price situations like that which prevails now in the cattle industry have been followed by increased production and reduced prices. Therefore, the bureau advises against new producers entering the industry, but those already in may profit by moderate expansion during the next two or three years even though prices go somewhat lower than at present.

OCTOPUS TRAPS
London—Scotland Yard is considering the adoption of a novel trap for bandits in motor cars. The device consists of a mat of steel tentacles and wire chains, placed across the road. When the bandit car crosses the mat, the wires and chains grip the chassis and entangle it in such a manner that a fast-moving car is stopped in less than 100 yards.

OKLAHOMA FARMER INVENTS USE FOR POOR JACKRABBIT

Marietta, Okla.—(P)—The old question—why were jackrabbits never put on earth?—has been answered by O. Fricke, enterprising farmer of Love Valley.

Fricke had about 400 laying hens on his farm, and a lot of jackrabbits. He was buying expensive meat scraps to balance the hens' diet, and the rabbits were eating his crops. So, Fricke began using a gun. He killed, skinned and dried the pests, and then ground them up with the rest of his feed mixture.

Neighbors remark that Fricke has been raising all of his chicken feed except meat scraps, and "now he is raising that." His income from the 400 white leghorns is about $100 a month.

ONLY HALF OF FARMERS GROW THEIR OWN SEED

Madison—(P)—Only about half of Wisconsin farmers grow their own seed corn, A. H. Wright, of the state college of agriculture, declared in a Farm Folks Week address today.

The annual planting of corn in the state is 40,000 bushels, he said. Of this amount, 200,000 bushels are grown in Wisconsin, and the remaining 200,000 bushels shipped from adjoining states. The state of Nebraska annually sends 100,000 bushels of seed corn to Wisconsin.

Of the 50 per cent who do not raise their own seed corn, twelve and one-half per cent buy home grown seed; two and one-half per cent buy southern grown seed; 10 per cent buy northwestern grown seed, and 25 per cent buy Nebraska seed corn.

"Both experience and experiments show that locally adapted seed corn is the best kind of plant," Mr. Wright said. "For this reason many farmers prefer to select and cure their own seed even though they know it costs them more than to buy it."

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

PROSPERITY OF FARMERS SHOWN BY THEIR WANTS

Demands for Automobiles, Tractors, Etc., Measure Their Prosperity

BY W. F. WINSEY

According to officials of the Outagamie Equity Exchange, the prosperity of farmers is indicated by their inquiries about the price of tractors, milking machines and other farm machinery and by past, present and contemplated purchases. Charles F. Collisson, agricultural editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, argues and apparently proves his contention from charts of the state of Minnesota, that an index of farm prosperity is the number of automobiles on a farm.

As the farmers of Outagamie-co are making more inquiries about the merits and prices of tractors, and have actually bought or are planning to buy more milking machines than the past two seasons at this time, the local officials are positive that the past year was an unusually prosperous one for the farmers of this community.

There is no list of farmers who are inquiring about machinery was consulted, some of those who have lately ordered milking machines are: Walter Wieckert, route 4, Appleton; William Bailey, route 6, Appleton; Joe Wittmann, route 7, Appleton; Phil Bixby, route 2, Appleton; William Ehms, Greenville.

Among the farmers who have used milking machines for some time are: Wehling Bros., two machines, route 2, Black Creek; Oliver Gehren, route 2, Little Chute; George Dietz, Medina; Herman Rohloff, route 3, Appleton; Nick Paltzer, route 5, Appleton; Emil Uhlenbruck, route 6, Appleton; John Bohn, route 3, Appleton; William Schroeder, two machines, route 3, Appleton; R. Smudde, route 3, Kaukauna; Herman Jacobs, route 3, Appleton; Joe Fassenbender, route 3, Hortonville; Edward Ziegler, route 3, Appleton; William Hofacher, route 5, Appleton; John Laux, route 6, Appleton; George Wendt, route 6, Appleton; Walter Schroeder, route 6, Appleton; Herman Bruhn, route 6, Appleton; John Johann, route 7, Appleton; Joe Birling, route 1, Menasha; Andrew Birling, route 1, Menasha; Lester Bartlein, route 1, Menasha; William Gintz, route 3, Appleton; Ervin Wittlin, route 1, Black Creek; James Wittlin, route 1, Black Creek; Mahlon Bungert, route 2, Hortonville.

On this chart used to prove that the number of automobiles on a farm is an index of farm prosperity, Mr. Collisson has figures showing the number of dairy cows in each county of Minnesota, the amount of money received for dairy products, the population, number of farms, and the number of automobiles.

In the most prosperous dairy district of Minnesota, all the members of each family may be out riding at the same time and each person may ride in a separate car. In some counties in which dairy production is not as large, members of the family must ride in two or three cars. In counties of only ordinary dairy production the entire family crowds into one car. In counties in which there is little or no dairying, there is only a scattering of cars on the farms, and crowded local cars of the highways.

Whether the Equity official, or Mr. Collisson has the better argument, the fact is that more cars and farm machinery will be bought after the close of a prosperous year than after an unprofitable year and that more inquiries about farm machinery and cars is closely connected with the individual and collective prosperity of a community.

35 Head of Horses

All Weights, Colors and Sizes

Among them are some well-mated teams of the low-down blocky type.

These horses have conformation of the right sort, short backs, deep middles, good bone, combined with their well broken qualities and soundness, for which they have been carefully selected. If you are in need of any horses for your spring work, it will pay you to look these over as they will be much higher later on.

Pruning Not A Cruelty To Trees

Washington—(P)—More people would wield saws and pruning shears before the winter is over, horticulturists declare, if they would but realize that pruning a tree is not a cruelty but a positive benefit to its health and bearing.

They decry the "tree butcher," but insist it doesn't take an expert to prune a tree if a few simple rules and common sense are used. Even the attempt of the amateur, they say, is better than allowing a tree to choke itself to death. If nothing more, all dead wood that induces decay and insects, and limbs and twigs that rub or cross each other closely, can be removed.

A fruit tree needs more attention. All except four or five main branches should be cut from the lower part of the trunk and the limbs and laterals cut back to keep the tree from going too high in the air and to force the development of additional fruit buds. Pruning increases the bearing surface, induces new buds, and helps put the tree on a vigorous, healthy basis.

PREDICTS DAIRYMAN WILL GRIND GRAINS

Madison—That Wisconsin dairymen will meet the high cost of mill feeds by growing and grinding their own grains is the prediction of I. W. Rupel, of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin.

According to Rupel, a grain ration made up of such feeds as corn, oats and barley will supply the needs of any cow of moderate production in case these feeds are supplemented by alfalfa hay. By moderate production, Rupel means a milk flow up to 40 pounds of milk a day, for Holstein cows, or 30 pounds daily for cows of the Guernsey and Jersey breeds.

He reports that experimental work at the Agricultural Experiment Station has shown that non protein-rich milk feeds are needed for cows producing at such levels, provided they are getting good quality alfalfa hay corn silage and a mixture of farm grown grains. The rate of grain feeding being 1 pound of grain for each 3 to 4 pounds of milk produced, varying the amount according to the test of the cow. In these experiments a group of cows fed alfalfa, corn silage and only farm grown grains, equaled the production of a similar group getting 20 per cent of protein-rich feeds in the same amount of concentrates.

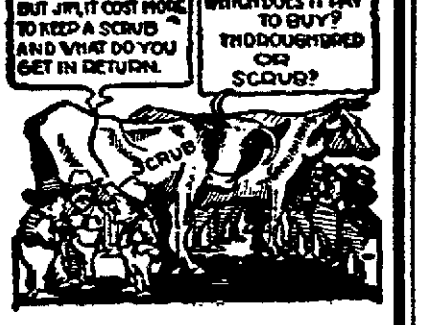

While Rupel regards it good economy to use only the farm grown feeds, he feels that it is important to supply additional protein to cows that produce at a higher level. He recommends that ten to twenty per cent of such protein-rich feeds as linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, or gluten meal should be added to the mixture of farm grown grains for cows producing more than 30 to 40 pounds of milk daily.

FARMER SAYS HE SAVES BY HIRING MOTOR TRUCK

Wilson, Okla.—(P)—One of the most successful farmers in southern Oklahoma owns neither a truck nor an automobile, yet he relies on motor transportation for marketing the products of his farm.

He is W. T. Blodgett of Wilson. Whenever he has anything for market he hires a truck, and when he has a trip to make he rides a bus. Blodgett says he saves money by hiring transportation because he does not tie up capital of his own in equipment that is idle a large part of the time. He hauled his peanut crop to market at the cost of only 1 cent a bushel, and he ships livestock to Fort Worth by truck for $25 a load.

LOUISIANA BOY GENIUS IN MATHEMATICS STUDY

New Orleans, La.—(P)—A small, pale, quiet child, 9-year-old John Candies, born in a secluded home on the banks of a South Louisiana bayou, has been discovered as a mathematical genius.

Each day he sits in the Des Allemands school ready to give lightning answers to problems of multiplication, addition and subtraction. His talent has not affected his modesty. He performs for visitors at the request of his teacher with wide-eyed timidity and does not understand why people marvel.

"John, multiply 233 by 124," requests the teacher.

"Thirty-five thousand and ninety-two," replies John immediately. His answers appear to come without effort.

John taught himself to read and write. He learned his letters from printed advertisements on grocery boxes which he begged from the few store-keepers along the bayou. He invented a system of his own which baffles his school teachers. He knew one of his letters as "M. Madame," another as "Vieux Marton" and still another as "Kootong."

The boy's struggle for education attracted public attention and this year he was entered in school and has been assured a college education if he will take it.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHTORETH ASHE (her name is HART now) honeymooning in Paris, meets an old sweetheart—MONTY ENGLISH.

Ashareth is living with her new husband, who is wonderfully rich, at the Ritz. Poor Monty, who sells radios, has a room over on the Left Bank. Monty always had a way of making a joke of poverty and now—as he tells Ashareth about his French flapper and his cheap pension—she thinks of her own liveried chauffeur, who rather frightens her; and her maid, who simply overwhelms her.

And she grows a little wistful. Monty asks her she is happy, and she insists that she is. But somehow she conveys the impression that all is not exactly as it should be.

As a matter of fact, her adoring middle-aged husband is getting slightly on her nerves. Not that he isn't good and loving—he simply worships the ground she walks on. And he is showering her, morning, noon and night, with the most wonderful gifts!

Sometimes Ashareth has a feeling of paying for pearls and amethysts with her kisses and her arms. The thought makes her shiver.

She tells Hollis of meeting Monty and asks if she may invite him to dinner. Hollis is hospitable and gracious as usual.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER LXIV. Ashareth had all she could do, coaxing Monty to have dinner with them.

He had given her his address and she had Felix drive her over to the Left Bank. Felix, very grand in his bottle-green tuxedo and his shiny puttees, driving the beautiful car, which was also bottle-green.

Perhaps Monty wouldn't be at home, but she had chosen Monday, hoping for the best. Hardly any shops were open on Monday, so probably there wasn't anywhere for a radio salesman to call. Anyhow she could leave him a note.

She was admitted by a lady of generous proportions and snapping black eyes, who escorted her to Monty's room and assured her that he would return shortly. Felix smiled nastily, showing his upper teeth, which looked like a squirrel's.

She was getting uneasy, when Monty made a noisy appearance. She could hear him downstairs. "Bon Jour, Madame! Bon Jour!" He had seen the car and was up the stairs, three at a time.

"Ash! for the love of the saints! Get out of here, you blooming little fool!"

"But Monty!"

"Yes—I know. Get out! Get out, I tell you!"

He had her by the arm and was shoeing her unceremoniously down the hall.

"I suppose you think, Madame, that I know dam well what Madame thinks. And that little dill pickle out there—the hired man that runs your buggy. What did you suppose they'd think—they're French, aren't they?"

"But Monty! For heaven's sake, stop pushing me! I'll be sure to have to throw me down the stairs. Listen, you poor chump, I only want to ask you to dinner."

He steered her into the parlor and sat her down in a pomegranate green chair. The place was clean and musty, with flowers under glass on the center table. The color scheme was green, like Pullmans and day coaches.

"Dinner!" he exclaimed. "In your bridal suite at the Ritz, I suppose? Nice, honey little meat. No thanks, Ash—not on your life."

"But Hollis wants you to come!" she protested.

"Well, that's very nice of him, I'm sure. Nothing mean about Hollis, is there? All ready to prove that the best man won. Being good to the bird that got that gate. You tell him for me, Ash, I'm not hankering to see him making love to any of my old girls!"

"Oh, Monty, don't be horrid. You're just as vulgar as can be!"

"That's what you used to tell me. Well, I haven't got over it any. If it's vulgar to hate to see any man pawing you, then I'm vulgar."

But, Monty, you don't know how fastidious and reserved Hollis is. Why, he wouldn't even touch me, in front of a servant or anybody. Please come, darling. I'm awfully lonesome for somebody besides Hollis."

"Getting fed up, are you?"

Ashareth put her fingers across his mouth.

"Don't talk like that," she commanded. "Just say you'll come."

trying to do—sell me the idea that life's all wrong?"

He inhaled reflectively, and smoke came flowing from his nose and mouth before he answered her.

"Maybe I was," he admitted. "Well, let's change the subject then."

But the subject, it seemed, was not easy to change.

"I don't know what's the matter with me," she confessed, after they had driven in silence for a mile or two. "But I certainly do feel blue."

"It's the love and the laughter of friends you need," announced Monty. "Probably you're homesick, Ash."

"No, it's not that." She bit the tip of her glove meditatively, and bit so hard that presently the pointed tip of a gleaming finger nail came poking through. "It's not that, Monty. It's—don't laugh at me!" she cautioned.

"Never," he promised. "Well... it's sort of a spiritual depression," she explained.

"As if," he prodded, "you'd sold your soul for a mess of pottage?"

Ashareth winced. "You're making fun of me!" she protested.

"Tease came to her eyes, and she winked so hard to keep them back that she could feel her nose getting red. She powdered it vigorously from a slim gold vanity.

"You might sell your autobiography to one of the True Story magazines, suggested Monty wickedly. 'I Married Millions and Hunger for Love.' The Amazing Life Story of a Girl Who Loved Wisely, But Not Too Well! Nice titles, Ash..."

"Please, Monty!" she cried. "You're not being funny a bit. And you know perfectly well that Hollis is simply crazy about me."

"Oh, sure," he agreed. "The poor sap."

Ashareth sat up very straight. "You're being absolutely insulting," she told him hotly. "I'm sure I don't know why I should endure your insolence."

"Neither do I," he conceded. "I got my mad money. Want me to get out and walk?"

"Now you're trying to be funny again!"

Monty snuffed his cigar in a little silver tray.

"There's no pleasing you, he drawled. "A nice easy chap like me to get along with. I don't know what's the matter with you, Ash?"

"Neither do I!" she cried. "Only please—please Monty—be good to me!"

She reached for his hand, and held it on her knee.

"I don't know," she confessed.

LITTLE JOE THE BEST THING TO PUT INTO PIES IS YOUR TEETH.

"What's the matter with me. Only—I'm so miserably discontented, Monty! Oh, I know. I shouldn't talk like this. It's wretched of me. I've the best husband that ever lived. He's perfectly wonderful..."

She put her handkerchief to her mouth. A wisp of lace, that waited a whisper of sachet. Hollis had bought it in the convent where she had brought her linens to be monogrammed. He had remarked that it was strange, the things nuns work on. Bridal nightgowns. And little clothes for babies that are the fruit of love.

"It is odd that they should spend their lives," he said, "on exquisite proprieties for women that are beloved of men."

It was a beautiful handkerchief, but not very practical. Ashareth wiped her eyes daintily. It wasn't big enough to blow her nose on.

"Now see here," Monty patted her knee consolingly. "No tears now. We don't want any crying."

"Who's going to cry?" she demanded angrily. "Oh, Monty, you make me sick. Here I'm only looking for a little sympathy, and..."

"Bridal shouldn't look for sympathy," he warned her. "It's apt to get them in trouble."

(To Be Continued)

Hollis and Ashareth decide to go home, and Monty plans to sail at the same time—only, all of a sudden—it's in the next chapter.

Sore Throat Is Symptom Of Infectious Process

Madison—That sore throat is not a disease in itself but is a symptom of an infectious process which may be mild or severe and needs immediate attention was the statement of the Committee on Health of the State Medical society issued Wednesday.

"Sore throat," says the statement, "is simply a convenient term under which the ordinary person groups any inflammatory condition of the tonsils or the throat. The inflamed area may be localized to one particular spot or it may be more general; it may involve only that part of the throat visible through the mouth or it may extend up and involve that part of the throat or pharynx which lies behind the nose or it may go downward and involve the larynx or the organ of speech which lies inside a cartilaginous box known commonly as 'Adam's Apple.'"

"The symptoms of sore throat are so well known that it is unnecessary to mention them. The causes, however, you should know something about. In the first place, sore throat is not a particular disease in itself. It is a symptom of an infectious disease. This infection may be relatively mild or it may be of a serious nature such as diphtheria. Again one type of sore throat may be merely a local infection while another type may be a part of a generalized disease. Quinsy is an example of the former. It is a local abscess behind the tonsils and while it is a most distressing ailment for the one who has it, the general symptoms accompanying it rapidly clear up when the abscess is opened and the pus is allowed to drain out. On the other hand sore throat is almost invariably an accompaniment of scarlet fever and although the local symptoms may not be particularly bothersome, it is no indication of the severity of the disease itself.

"The first manifestation of many other diseases may be sore throat; in fact with some, except for fever, it may be the only symptom of which the patient complains. Some of the diseases ushered in by sore throat are diphtheria, influenza, scarlet fever and streptococcus sore throat, which is due to the same germ that causes blood poisoning and is liable to lead to severe complications even to a fatal outcome. A sore throat is a danger signal. Do not neglect it."

CHARITY DIRECTORS WORRIED BY CHAINS

New York—(AP)—Directors of the National Association of Community Chests, who met here today, are concerned as to the effect upon welfare budgets chain stores, branch utilities and the like.

A nation wide study by the National Bureau of Economic Research has been authorized.

Henry D. Sharpe, president of the Browne & Sharpe Manufacturing company of Providence, R. I., and acting president of the community chest association, said the launching of the study was the first step toward the solution of what he termed the most acute problem of welfare agencies the country over.

"The steady trend toward centralization of business, industrial and utility control in large cities, resulting in increased non-resident ownership of branches in smaller places, has created a situation having a direct influence upon social progress throughout the nation," he said.

"From many cities we learn of corporations which have assumed social obligations and adopted generous policies from others we hear of companies which take no interest whatever in local affairs. In both instances the situation is hurtful. The generous corporations may become irritated at the failure of the others to do their part, and where the corporations fail to give, at all we find discouragement and antagonism among the local people. Our aim is a general policy which is fair to all."

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1876, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

J. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Golden Deeds

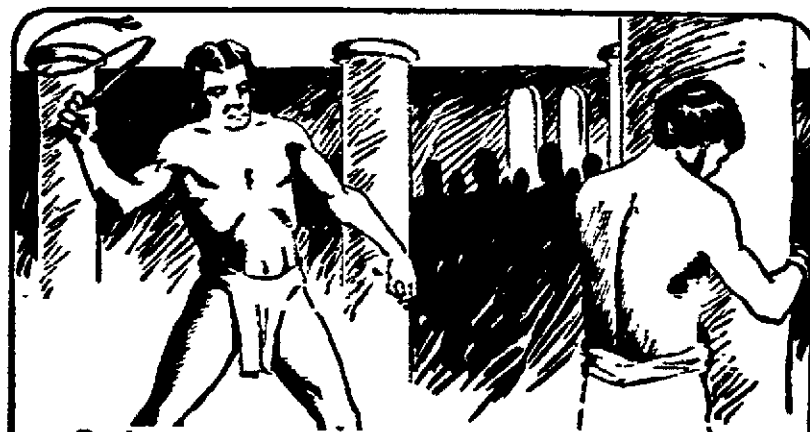

When Regulus and his embassy from Carthage arrived in Rome, Regulus was loath to give his opinions on continuing the war with Carthage until commanded by the Roman Senate to do so. Standing in the Senate he urged that the war with Carthage go on until Carthage be conquered.

His counsel prevailed. The Carthaginian embassy returned home, and with them, true to his word went the resolute patriot.

The banks of the Tiber were crowded with his fellow-countrymen when Regulus embarked on the ship that was to bear him to his death.

Facing certain death upon his return to Carthage, he did not flinch. He was a Roman and he had done his duty as he saw it. Cruelly the Carthaginians, overlooking the nobility of spirit that had prompted his act, put him to death. But his name lives on as a watchword of loyalty and sacrifice.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured twice in a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 1222C Marcellus Ave., Manassquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation. adv.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief. Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste. This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

MYSTERY SHROUDS BRITISH BANKER

Head of English Bank Gets Thrill Out of Buying Old Books

London—(P)—The man who founded Great Britain's war debt to the United States, Montagu Collet Norman, has broken all records for longevity of service as governor of the old Lady of Threadneedle street and it begins to look as if the post is his long as he wants it. He has served continuously since 1920, although previous to his incumbency governors of the Bank of England were limited by custom to two years in office. Mr. Norman is something of a mystery man among European bankers. His olive complexion and clipped beard give him the appearance of an artist. He thinks in millions, but rarely talks except in monosyllables. He is called the "Silent Partner" because of the number of secret missions he has made. Governor Norman probably gets more of a thrill out of picking up a bargain at a second-hand book store than he does out of putting over a billion dollar deal. He hates publicity and has few intimate friends outside of banking circles. So little is known of him by the English public that he is able to provide around the second-hand book stalls in pursuit of his favorite hobby, few recognizing the little man of quiet, serious disposition, slightly past middle age. He is a bachelor and lives alone in a great home at Camden Hill. The man who probably controls more cash than any man in the world, added in putting into effect the Dawes Plan, the League of Nations loan to Austria and stabilization of Austrian finances, the loan to Hungary, the refugee loan to Greece and the loan to Bulgaria, began his banking career as a clerk, at 24, in the American banking firm of Brown, Shipley & Company of London. He was educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge.

GERMANS BREACH BRITISH TRADE WALL

Tariff With South Africa Gives Germany Same Footing as Britain

London—(P)—Germany has broken through the tariff walls of the British Empire. Her new trade treaty with South Africa, embracing a "most favored nation" clause, gives her exactly the same business footing in that part of the dark continent as England. Already a great hue and cry has arisen in England and such epithets as "against the spirit of the Empire" and "inconsistent with the ideals of the imperial conference" are in the press. One journal describes the treaty as a "grievous blow to the cause of imperial preference." The Daily Express, leading independent-conservative newspaper, blames the politicians at Whitehall. Some observers regard the new treaty as part of the growing pains becoming manifest in other parts of the Empire. In Ceylon the local legislature is demanding a new constitution with a definite date to be set by Great Britain for the granting of a full responsible government. Scotland and Wales also have "home rule" movements but neither has reached serious proportions. India is in a state of unrest, while East Africa is urging that the crown colonies and protectorates of Uganda, Kenya, Tanganyika be merged into one dominion with a combined area of 700,000 square miles, eight times the size of England, a population of more than 10,000,000 and wonderful natural resources.

OIL INSTITUTE HEAD WOULD LIMIT OUTPUT

Chicago—(P)—Election of E. E. Revert of Tulsa, Okla., as president of the American Petroleum Institute at the annual convention here, places at the head of the industry's trade association a man who last summer instituted plans for cooperation of petroleum producers in a campaign to limit or control production. Control of petroleum output has been sought by the industry for some years, even to the extent of an international agreement. At one time efforts were made to experiment with the idea in Venezuela, but business changes disrupted the attempt. daughter, born last week. Mrs. Ver Kullen was formerly Miss Veronika Kull of Isaak.
